AMENDMENTS ARE OPPOSED BY LEADERS

FEDERAL AGENT, SEVEN OTHERS JAILED ON NARCOTIC CHARGES

RENO, Nev., May 21.—(UP)—Investigation of dope peddling activities in wide-open Reno today threatened to implicate prominent life figures and local officials as federal narcotic agents and Washee county authorities continued their probe.

"It looks as if nearly everyone in violating the state law prohibiting this town is going to be implicated in sale of narcotics."

"Sales of morphine have apparently been made openly from this club for several years," Brown said. "Anyone who had a dollar could walk in and buy a specially-prepared 'shot' of dope. We are also investigating reports that peddlers made sales on Reno streets."

Ball for Hansen and McAvoy on the federal charge was set at $5,000 each after Brown said McAvoy confessed to him and U. S. Attorney E. P. Carville that Hansen had given him two ounces of dope in two night clubs for resale to Joyce McAllister, 22, Santa Barbara girl, who co-operated with federal agents in trapping the peddlers.

Woo Sing, operator of the club and leader of a powerful Chinese faction in western Nevada, and five other Chinese, Yow Woo, Yee Fong, Harry Chee, Jim Woo and William Woo, were arrested on charges of

F. D. R., AIDES IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today called in Postmaster General James A. Farley and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings for a luncheon conference thought likely to concern the judiciary situation and appointment of a successor to retiring Supreme Court Justice Willis Van Devanter.

The White House conference was scheduled shortly after the president told reporters that he had, as yet, given no consideration to Van Devanter's successor. At the same time he expressed no comment on status of his judicial reorganization fight.

Senate sentiment has been expressed strongly in favor of appointment of Senate Majority leader Joseph T. Robinson to the high court vacancy.

The White House did not announce the purpose of the Farley-Cummings conference. The president, however, would be expected to confer with both cabinet officers of the high court vacancy. Cummings' advise would be sought on legal aspects of the situation and probably on the question of candidates. Farley is concerned as the president's chief political advisor.

On the judicial reorganization front, administration leaders reportedly were seeking some compromise plan which would avert senate defeat of Mr. Roosevelt's original program.

U. S. SARDINE LAWS URGED BY ASSEMBLY

more than an hour. All declined to discuss the conference, but it was learned that the administration forces were prepared to oppose every amendment effort which will include attempts to decrease the fund to $1,000,000,000, increase it to $2,000,000,000, and earmark portions of the appropriation for specific purposes, notably PWA.

Demand for a quorum call by Rep. Ross A. Collins, D., Miss., delayed the start of floor debate for 45 minutes, but did not dampen the vigor with which advocates of the $1,500,000,000 appropriation supported the measure.

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D., Mo., ranking majority member of the house appropriations committee, opened debate with the assertion that "it is far better to spend federal money for food, than for poison gas."

Cession Denied

Denying that $1,500,000,000 constituted a "waste" of government funds, Cannon told the house that neither President Roosevelt nor the house leadership had attempted to coerce members on the relief issue.

Cannon warned members that there would be "a day of reckoning if you go back home and tell your constituents that you did not support the president and threw 500,000 people out of work."

The use of papyrus paper in olden times was brought to an end by the introduction of Chinese linen paper.

SMOKE ROLLS OVER BEACH

Billowing clouds of smoke drifted over Huntington Beach late yesterday afternoon when oil tanks, heated for shipment, boiled over and exploded. Flames spread over a wide area. The picture below shows one of the fires that yesterday attracted hundreds of spectators to the scene.

MAN MISSING

Andres Garcia, Placentia Mexican, 33, six feet three inches tall, weighing 180 pounds, was reported to sheriff's officers as a missing person today. Mrs. Martinez, Placentia friend, described him as having a scar on upper lip and one front tooth out. He wore grey sweater and brown trousers when he disappeared.

The uniforms of American letter carriers and substitutes are procured at their own expense.

REVEAL DUKE'S WEDDING PLANS

MONTGOMERY, France, May 21.—(UPI)—The Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Warfield will be married only by civil ceremony and there will be no religious service to impart the sanction of the Church of England, it was announced officially today by Herman L. Rogers, spokesman for the duke.

Rogers said a religious ceremony had been discussed but he could give no reason why it would not take place.

"It has been said that one minister was asked to perform the ceremony and refused," a reporter reported.

"I think that is highly unlikely," Rogers replied.

Asked if any refusals to the wedding invitations had been received, Rogers said: "Not that I know of."

In reply to a question about whether a religious ceremony would occur later, he replied, "I couldn't say."

Mrs. D. Buchanan Meryman, of Washington, aunt of Mrs. Warfield, arrived at the Chateau de Candie with Lt. Dudley Forwood, equerry to the duke.

British dominions have brought the strongest pressure on the British government to ostracize the Duke of Windsor politically and socially, it was understood today.

This, it is said, is the secret behind the excitement that has been caused over the question of royal permission for friends of the duke in official life to attend his wedding to Mrs. Wallis Warfield June 3.

BILL PROPOSES 35-HOUR WEEK

for Industrial Organization, the labor and commerce departments were in agreement on the general principles of the plan.

The bill carries a child labor provision designed to prevent shipment of goods in interstate commerce manufactured in establishments employing persons under 16 years of age.

Determination of what industries can be considered in interstate commerce would, it was admitted, depend on supreme court interpretations still awaited.

A three-man board proposed a federal board of three members is proposed to administer the act, to be named by the president, with no restrictions as to their background economically.

The proposed bill, now in the hands of such men as Chairman William P. Connelly, D., Mass., of the house labor committee would also prevent federal control of wages above a $1500 annual basic per worker.

Above that amount the worker or the organization he is in, would have power to bargain collectively.

The bill would not affect any segment of industry having less than 20 employees.

MAN INJURED BY TIGER AT CIRCUS

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., (UPI)—In full view of a crowd of 3500 that watched an indoor Shrine circus at the auditorium last night, a Sumatran tiger seized and inflicted serious wounds on H. G. Getchell, $1, as he walked by her cage.

Getchell was in a critical condition today with eight wounds on his chest, arm and back.

Getchell had just left his box to walk across the arena and shake hands with Capt. Roman Prosko, animal trainer, as part of the ceremony.

The animals were let into the cages just before Getchell approached.

Judy, a four-year-old tiger, sprang to the bars of her cage and seized Getchell. Irving Polack and Felix Morales, attendants, ran to the cages and began firing their revolvers which were loaded with blanks. Judy released Getchell and fled.

Only 10 British industries still exclude women workers.

OIL MEASURE GETS BACKING

WELSH, the author, admitted it had the approval of the Standard Oil company.

"Do you have any idea how much money was spent to move this bill over from the assembly?" Sen. Culbert L. Olson asked.

"Well, I can't imagine any more was spent on it than on the Olson bill," Welsh replied.

"Sold Down River"

"I don't think you believe a cent was spent on the Olson bill. I think we're being sold down the river," Olson remarked.

The Los Angeles senator objected strenuously to senate approval of the bill ratifying an agreement with Standard Oil to pay $805,000 for oil removed from the state deposits by virtue of oil and gas and should be made to pay more than 10 per cent for the privilege.

"If the situation was reversed," he said, "the state certainly would have to pay more than 10 per cent offered by Standard."

Olson's amendment to require a higher payment and more royalties on future production was defeated, 4 to 35. The ratification bill was approved, 35 to 4. Senators Garrison, Hollister and Westover joined Olson in the fight against the measure.

After the rebel attacks subsided, the loyalists took the offensive. They forced the rebels to return to their previous positions and captured machine guns, rifles, a trench mortar and a large quantity of munitions.

BILBAO, Spain, May 21.—(UPI)—Two German officers who blundered into the loyalist lines in an automobile six weeks ago, were sentenced to death by a loyalist tribunal today on a charge of aiding the rebellion.

The Germans are Capt. Walter Kienzle, 24, and Lieut. Gunther Schultz, 22.

FLAMES MENACE HOMES AT H. B.

Light Service Crippled

The first explosion crippled the city's light and telephone lines and halted traffic over the Pacific Electric line which parallels the Pira lease.

Fire Chief Sergeant estimated that the damage to the derricks and four oil tanks would approximate $15,000.

Following the first explosion and sheet of flames that swept over the lease there were additional explosions as the fire reached the oil storage tanks. Each dull explosion rocked the city and hurled the flaming oil farther into the residential section.

The top of one of the tanks was hurled 150 feet into the air by the force of the explosion and dropped across the street, narrowly missing a group of spectators.

Homes Menaced

With the flaming oil endangering the residential section of the city a second menace swept toward the area from the other side when the high wind swept the flames into a hay field. Tongues of flame raced through the hay and were not halted until they had almost reached several houses on the edge of the field. A sump fire, a mile from the scene of the explosion, that started at the same time, was allowed to burn itself out while fire fighting forces centered their activities on saving homes in the city's residential area.

Among the homes endangered were those belonging to J. H. Price, Charles Bradleycamp, Thomas Berry and Mrs. William J. McClure.

The Standard Oil company fire department aided the city department by spraying hose from the Standard lease across the road from the principal blaze, across the Pacific Electric tracks and coast highway to the blazing inferno. Water was sprayed on the imperiled houses for more than an hour to prevent them being seared by the flames.

The exploding oil storage tanks hurled flaming oil for a distance of four blocks, setting fire to the roofs of residences in the area. Members of the city fire department centered the major portion of their activity to extinguishing these fires and preventing the oil field fire from spreading to other leases.

REBELS LAUNCH BILBAO ATTACK

MADRID, May 21.—(UPI)—A terrific battle for possession of Bilbao is being waged along a 15-mile front, dispatches from the front lines reported today.

The rebels began a series of attacks on five sectors in an effort to crush the Basque defenders and seize the long beleaguered port on the Bay of Bilbao.

"Sold Down River"

"I don't think you believe a cent was spent on the Olson bill. I think we're being sold down the river," Olson remarked.

The Los Angeles senator objected strenuously to senate approval of the bill ratifying an agreement with Standard Oil to pay $805,000 for oil removed from the state deposits by virtue of oil and gas and should be made to pay more than 10 per cent for the privilege.

ST. ANNE'S TO GIVE BARBECUE NEXT SUNDAY

BLAZED OWN CALIFORNIA TRAIL

HISTORIC OLD STAGE COACH ON ED GAINES' RANCH ONE OF FEW REMAINING IN U. S.

By MARAH ADAMS

"Wagon wheel, wagon wheel, keep on a turning wagon wheel" . . . and that's just what the wheels of the old stage coach up on Ed Gaines' ranch in Carbon canyon are going to do long after this generation has passed on to another plane of existence . . . when great streamlined airships carry freight and passengers high above the rutted roads where the stage once rumbled its way from small settlement to small settlement.

Ed Gaines' ranch is something to dream about after you have been there to see the famous Concord stage coach said to be one of the last of the many once used in California where in 1851 as many as 15 thriving stage coach lines flourished. The 3000-acre ranch has been owned by Mrs. Gaines for the past 40 years and it is the "Flying Cow." The owner says the ranch was named from a wild cow that used to roam the hills and which always evaded the skillfully flung ropes of the ranch hands.

House Overlooks Grove
Over the gate near the corral where the stage coach is kept sheltered in a big barn, hangs an old oil yoke. A pony saddled and bridled and ready for a ride over the hills may be wandering about. The ranch house sits cool and pleasant as a lovely hostess, on a hill overlooking a slope of orange trees set on one side of a barranca, the other side overgrown with tangle of trees and vines.

"Where are all the rest of the stage coaches which once rolled over California roads?" you may ask Ed Gaines. And Ed Gaines, who typifies the old California days with his courtly manner, and who remembers things which are all but forgotten, will answer. "Used up by the motion picture companies."

Fast, he says. In the old days of motion picture making nothing was thought of buying an old stage coach for western pictures, and letting it plunk down the side of a mountain to destruction. This coach in Carbon canyon has the distinction of never having been used in a motion picture.

The vehicle which Mr. Gaines has carefully preserved was built by the Abbott, Downing and company of Concord, N. H., about 1875. It was used on a run of the Bixby coast stage coach line which ended at San Pedro. The original leather is on the coach and the great wagon which weighs 2500 pounds is in ship shape condition. It is a Butterfield type with a "boot" in front for the mail and a "boot" in the back for luggage. A "boot" is a space covered with a heavy leather curtain.

Father Rode Coach
The crack and rattle of the axles meant music to those who waited for the coming of the coach, says Mr. Gaines. His father rode from the north in this very coach when he was in Sparta, Wis.

The deceased is survived by his widow Mrs. J. Elizabeth Foote.

Retired Rancher Dies At His Home
Walter Edward Foote, 76, retired rancher and resident of Santa Ana for the past 11 years, died yesterday at his home, 515 East Myrtle street. Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Brown and Wagner Funeral Home, 116 West State street, Rev. Perry F. Schrock officiating. Interment in the family plot at Sparta, Wisconsin.

FOOTE—Near Costa Mesa, May 20, 1937. James Solomon Ellis, aged 71 years. Husband of Sarah E. Ellis and father of Henley Ellis of Costa Mesa, Boyd Ellis of Santa Ana, Carlene Ellis of Costa Mesa, brother of D. W. Ellis of Greenfield. Mr. Ellis had been a resident of Orange county for 51 years. Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel, Rev. C. D. Hines officiating. Interment Westminster Central Memorial Park cemetery.

FOOTER—May 20, 1937, at his home, 515 E. Myrtle street, Walter Edward Foote, aged 76 years. He is survived by his wife, J. Elizabeth Foote. Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Brown and Wagner Funeral Home, 116 West State street, Rev. Perry F. Schrock officiating. Interment in the family plot at Sparta, Wisconsin.

40 ET 8 TELLS CITRUS GROUP CONTEST PLANS MEETS TUESDAY FOR AMATEURS

More money for citrus by-products and the possibility of selling several carloads of fruit to the federal government will be topic for discussion Tuesday at a meeting of Orange county citrus growers.

The meeting will be held at 10 a.m. in California hotel, Fullerton, according to Franw Spires of the United Citrus Growers' Protective Alliance, who called the conference.

That organization is sponsoring the contest with the assistance of the Santa Ana Drum and Bugle Corps for the benefit of the groups' Child Welfare Fund.

Cash Awards

Each Legion post in the county will hold elimination contests at the regular post meetings during the closing week of May. The winners in local competitions will come to Santa Ana June 7, 8, 9 for the finals.

Cash awards will be made during the final competition and the winner selected on the last night will be given a one night engagement at the Orpheum theater in Los Angeles and finish the week at two other show houses in that city.

Candidate in every city of the county may file their entries with the commander of the Legion post in their own city. Amateurs living in La Habra, Brea and Buena Park will file their entries with Dave Day, 417 South Spadra street, Fullerton. They will enter the elimination contest to be held in Fullerton, May 25. Other elimination contests will be held in Garden Grove, May 26 and in Santa Ana May 27.

Seven thousand tons of water go over Niagara Falls every second.

Each spoke of the wheels are made of the clearest ash, hand hewn, carefully weighed and balanced in the hand and fitted to the rim. The paint on the coach is bright. The rear wheels are five feet high. The coach was drawn by from four to six horses and Mr. Gaines secured it after it had been sold for $500, kept for some years by the Bixbys and Billingslys as a keepsake and even used as a land advertisement at Laguna Beach.

There is the tang of the early days of the old west on the Gaines ranch. Any minute old time residents may come riding through the ranch gates. Not so long ago Leo Douglas, a lion hunter of note in Orange county, arrived with Milan A. Williams of Buena Park. Williams' father, a Milan Williams, too, crossed the plains shortly after gold was discovered, landing in San Francisco in California in 1852. Mr. Gaines and his visitors lean against the old stage coach and the old west lives again on the Flying Cow ranch.

"Where are all the rest of the stage coaches which once rolled over California roads?" you may ask Ed Gaines. And Ed Gaines, who typifies the old California days with his courtly manner, and who remembers things which are all but forgotten, will answer. "Used up by the motion picture companies."

Fast, he says. In the old days of motion picture making nothing was thought of buying an old stage coach for western pictures, and letting it plunk down the side of a mountain to destruction. This coach in Carbon canyon has the distinction of never having been used in a motion picture.

The vehicle which Mr. Gaines has carefully preserved was built by the Abbott, Downing and company of Concord, N. H., about 1875.

It was used on a run of the Bixby coast stage coach line which ended at San Pedro. The original leather is on the coach and the great wagon which weighs 2500 pounds is in ship shape condition. It is a Butterfield type with a "boot" in front for the mail and a "boot" in the back for luggage. A "boot" is a space covered with a heavy leather curtain.

Veteran officers of the Salvation Army will be in charge of these services which will be held in the Citadel, 214 North Sycamore street at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Colonel A. D. Jackson, divisional commander for Southern California, has appointed Colonel and Mrs. A. E. Marpurg to conduct the Santa Ana services.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—News that Mr. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Labor senator from Minnesota, has decided to join the economic royalists and oppose President Roosevelt's judiciary reform bill should not surprise any New Dealers familiar with that strange species of prairie statesmanship.

Years ago, when Mr. Hoover was in the White House and the monomaniac Mr. Ogden Mills were the last words in diplomacy, I happened to find one of the leading officials of the state department holding his head and looking as though he had been wrestling with beasts at Ephesus. On being asked what was the matter, he replied that he had just completed an appointment in the world to grasp an idea and that if they wanted his vote for the reform bill they should have abandoned all arguments and tried dog biscuits instead.

It just means that the Roosevelt administration, failed to realize that Henrik Shipstead is the last man in the world to grasp an idea and that if they wanted his vote for the reform bill they should have abandoned all arguments and tried dog biscuits instead.

Any doubts as to the future of the Republican party were set at rest by the solemn presentation of a plan by Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Rep. Bob Bacon of the millionaire tip of Long Island to reduce the next relief appropriation.

"But surely," I asked (for I had never met the son of Minnesota), "surely Senator Shipstead got the idea?"

the tidy sum of $250,000,000.

Any time the Republicans clamor for larger relief appropriations you will know that the Grand Old Party has come to life, even life beyond the grave, but regular as clockwork. The spokesman for General oMordom and the stock market solemnly urge that the other guy shouldn't eat so much or some equally popular theory of democratic government as interpreted below the money-belt.

In this case, the Republican theory is that by turning relief over to the states it would be possible to aid as many people as before, but at much less administrative expense. Since the administrative cost of WPA is much less than 10 per cent of the total cost of federal relief, it would be interesting to know where Messrs. Vandenberg and Bacon imagine they can "squeeze" a $250,000,000 string out of $1,500,000,000 appropriation. Possibly these two Tories think an appropriation bill is like a stock-selling racket and that if Wall Street can tell the customers anything, the G. O. P. can get away with a little optimistic prevarication.

Major George Berry is the newly appointed senator from Tennessee. For years and years, within the memory of this column, Major Berry has been so closely identified with New York City labor politics that his claim to a Tennessee residence must be regarded as one of the largest rabbits ever pulled from the New Deal hat.

As a matter of fact, greater flexibility in this matter of residence and citizenship will be all to the good and so Major Berry is welcome in Washington, not only as another little vote for the New Deal policies, but as proof that Mr. Roosevelt is breaking down the barriers which disqualify so many Americans of their right to vote, let alone their right to hold office.

LOCAL BOARD TO MOVE QUARTERS

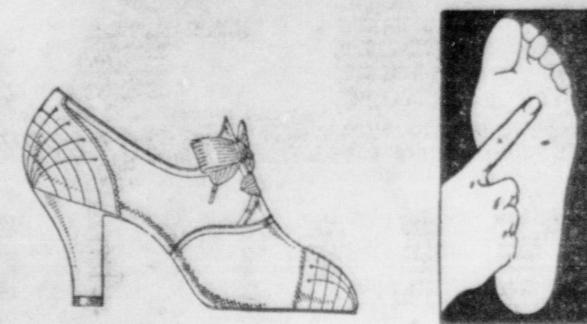

Need for more space in the local board of equalization headquarters will result in a move, June 1, from 306 West Fifth street, a store room in the Broadway theater building, to a suite in the Builders Exchange building, northwest corner of Second and Main, it was announced today by Thomas E. Taylor, head of the local office.

"With our handling of the sales, use, truck and gas taxes and the liquor control, we find our quarters too limited," Taylor said. "We have 14 employees on the job, including those engaged in enforcing the Alcoholic Beverage Control act."

The new suite is centered about Room 212 of the Builders Exchange building. Liquor control officials will be in Room 211.

Townsend Topics

By W. F. Rockwell

(Editor's Note: The comment and opinions of W. F. Rockwell, as appearing in this column are not necessarily those of The Register.)

Will the Townsend plan ever be sold in the heart of anything MORE NEEDED today? Answer: Is the American corn belt—WHERE WE RECENTLY PAID AMERICAN FARMERS NOT TO PRODUCE CORN. Now, we are paying South American farmers—SENDING OUR MONEY TO SOUTH AMERICA—for corn which our farmers could have produced. We keep our wealth locked in the ground—and SEND WEALTH OUT OF THE COUNTRY IN EXCHANGE FOR FOREIGN GOODS PRODUCED WITH FOREIGN LABOR.

Yes, everything indicates now that nothing else but the Townsend plan can relieve today's economic situation, and because the greedy, grasping financial interests are determined to continue their hold, regardless of the suffering entailed thereby, we must persistently fight with patient, unflinching resoluteness, till victory crowns our efforts and sacrifices. Every REAL Townsendite, whether a member of a club or not, will buckle on his armor and fight valiantly on with an eye single to glorious victory.

Dr. Townsend says: "In Chicago we see millions of bushels of corn from South America ar-the public treasury—collected in taxes from the people—not to produce cotton, while we import cotton good."

We paid millions from the public treasury—collected in taxes from the people—not to produce sugar, while we import sugar. While we keep our national wealth locked up—and millions of our people on government work relief and business and stimulate imports of everything from gold to gadgets. While we stimulate employment in foreign lands, we tax our people to provide work relief in America.

GALAVO GROUP RETURNS HIGH; CROP SHORTER

Orange county members of the Calavo Growers of California are reaping definite benefits this year because of a two-year campaign to expand avocado distribution and consumption, according to officials of the organization.

During the past six months, officials of the organization pointed out in a report released yesterday, the growers have netted a 10 per cent greater return on approximately 30 per cent less fruit than during the same period two years ago.

Two years ago a total of 630,773 packed flats of avocados was harvested by growers in the state, during the first six months. For the same period this year the total harvest was 450,525 packed flats. It was pointed out, however, that despite the large frost damage the current crop is considerably larger than it was last year.

It was also pointed out in the report that the total dollar sales volume of the growers' marketing cooperative, including that of sideline or specialty items handled, for the first six months this season was the largest in the 12 years of the cooperative's existence.

Citrus Division Of Farm Bureau To Meet Monday

Meeting at 2 p. m. Monday, members of the Citrus Department of the Orange County Farm Bureau will discuss the so-called "Uniform No Smoke Ordinance." The meeting will be held in the farm bureau assembly hall.

The proposal for a uniform ordinance regulating orchard heating has been discussed for some time in Los Angeles county but has never, before, come up for discussion by the Orange county group. Recently the matter was referred to a committee from the Citrus department for study and it is expected that this group will report the results of their study at the meeting next Monday, according to R. D. Flaherty, executive-secretary of the farm bureau.

State May Sell Barrymore Land

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 21.—(UP)—Unless John Barrymore pays the state $4500 allegedly due on his 1936 income tax, officials will place liens on his property and sell it to meet the deficiency, Charles J. McGowan, franchise tax commissioner, said today.

McGowan ordered tax collectors to locate property owned by the screen star as a preliminary step.

The commissioner said the deadline for filing income tax returns and making arrangements for payment passed April 15.

"Apparently Barrymore didn't remit," he said.

McGowan certified the delinquency to the Sacramento county superior court, where automatic judgment was obtained.

Gardening Is Theme Of Talk

LA HABRA, May 21.—"What's New in Gardening" was discussed by Mrs. G. E. Sutton, at the meeting of the Study Section of the La Habra Woman's club Wednesday at the Heights home of Mrs. H. L. Murieta. Mrs. Sutton used fresh flowers and current magazine to illustrate her talk. Following the reading of the paper, a question-and-answer discussion was held in which Mrs. Murieta, an experienced gardener, A visit to the Murieta greenhouses and gardens completed the program.

Plans were made for a picnic and beach party to close the club year on June 1st. This party will be held at the beach home of Mrs. A. Akers in San Clemente.

JIMMIE FIDLER IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, May 21—I believe I have previously remarked that the kiss of salutation is common here. Almost as common as shaking hands. Or better yet, almost as common as knitting backs. The custom has no depth of meaning; no more so than nose rubbing among the Eskimos. It is merely that an actor's emotions are nearer the surface and his hells demand more than a handshake. The kisses are an outlet for his natural exhibitionism.

Hollywood ladies have gradually become accustomed to this greeting. I can remember when they blushed on such occasions, but no more. I do not mean to give you the idea that every man "snacks" every woman on meeting, but between good friends the habit is widespread. As an observer of the custom (and also a partaker; I'm no fool), I have studied the techniques of various actresses. Here are a few:

Loretta Young and Anita Louise simply hold up their faces like dutiful children. They seem instinctively to know the proper time. Jeanette MacDonald pouts—and if she does not quit it, I am going to beat Gene Raymond to the punch some day. Joan Crawford gives more than she takes; I mean, she is the aggressor, and her lips barely graze the cheeks of those she greets. Jean Harlow also acts in the affirmative, but accompanies her kiss with a brief, one-arm hug.

I have yet to see a genuine kiss in public even between such fond couples as Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor. Come to think of it, these two greet each other only with cheery words. This makes me think that the stars may have established a double standard for kissing—the sentimental sort not to be flaunted publicly, and the other kind which is freely exchanged in cafes, studios or on the street.

at HART'S "The Friendly Store" bounced back from Story Editor Julian Johnston with the terse notation: "This is not one story. It is two. Both are terrible!"

Clark Gable worked me for a laugh with his story about a "quickie" preview he saw recently. The first 50 feet revealed nothing but an empty set. Then the actors peopled it and the story moved along fairly well. After the preview, Gable asked the make-em-in-one-day producer, "Why the blank film at the start?" "That's because I start shooting promptly at 8 o'clock," came the snappy reply, "and if my actors haven't arrived on the set, it's just too bad!"

Loiling on a set between scenes this morning, I got to talking with a cameraman. You would not recognize his name, so I won't embarrass the man by telling it. But here is his story: It seems there was a clever girl who got into pictures by cultivating a casting director. She moved up to bits by making friends with an assistant director. Then she eyed this cameraman, and he fell like the rest. Result: He made her stand out on the screen like an angel among mortals. Immediately that attracted the attention of the studio boss. He sent for the girl, succumbed to her lure and—well, to shorten the story, he ordered a screen test which, if good, meant a fine contract.

"But as she had mounted each new rung of the ladder," explained the cameraman, "she managed to drop each old playmate for someone more important. When her test was made, she photographed so badly that she not only got no contract but lost her producer-friend as well." And with a strange smile and shrug of his shoulders, the cameraman added, "Did I remember to tell you I was cameraman for her test?"

Paul Muni, this year's winner of the Academy Award, has not taken his honor too seriously, which is perhaps because he has been a good actor for so many years that praise bounces off his ears. This morning, as he was receiving congratulations from a group of Eastern friends visiting Hollywood, he interrupted to tell them of a recent experience. He was leaving a theatre lobby after a preview when a gentleman stepped forward and said, "Mr. Muni, I just saw 'Good Earth.' Believe me, Sir, you are getting good!" Mrs. Warfield and Fiance "at Home" to Cameramen

The British government may make it impossible for Mrs. Wallis Warfield to be known as "Her Royal Highness," but that doesn't seem to cloud the happiness of the former Baltimore belle over her reunion with the Duke of Windsor as they pose together graciously for cameramen at Chateau de Candé, near Monts, France. With the government's tabu on a royal designation (which must be bestowed by the king) she will be simply Duchess of Windsor.

BUILDING AT LAGUNA HITS RECORD HIGH

LAGUNA BEACH, May 21.—Continuing without diminution, local building operations continue at an all-time high mark, according to figures made available by Building Inspector Floyd C. Case of Laguna Beach. During the first 19 days of May, over $85,000 in new construction has been authorized, virtually all of it being new housing, either individual homes or apartment, court, or multiple-unit types of residential construction. In addition to the new work, much reconstruction, demolition and modernizing is being done with many of the old-fashioned houses, once picturesque but now suffering by comparison with newly built next-door places.

First street, until recently only a short cut to the post office, is being built up solid with new structures, including the A. & P. market, new Forest avenue garage, Herald building all these on the north side of First. On the south side, the Peacock building is being remodeled, and new shop-fronts added.

Permits for new construction are expected to exceed $100,000 before the end of May.

It Seems To Me

by HEYWOOD BROUN

STAMFORD, Conn., May 20.—As a reward for five days of practically perfect conduct Connie allowed me to take a night off and go into town for a business meeting. At least, that is what I told her. It turned out to be a very gay party. We sang college songs such as "Choo! Choo! Rah! Rah! for Holy Cross" and all the verses of "Hinky Dinky Parley Woo," which seemed meet and proper for a dazed company. I met a blond girl who said, "Why, M. B., you look fifty years younger since your weekend in the country," and we danced twice around the floor.

Spring Goes to Head and Feet

When I got to Grand Central Station I found that I had just time to catch the last train, which goes at 11:50. It would be midnight and more before I got home. But in spite of the lateness of the hour I didn't feel in any way tired. On the contrary, there was a spring in my step and my eyes were bright, and somewhere back of the New Haven ticket windows the birds seemed to be singing. I fumbled in my pockets and found that I had lost my mileage book, but I still had the slip of paper with the telephone number. There's nothing so useful to revive your youth as getting around with young people. I must do it more often.

Seated in the smoking car, I lit a big black cigar and started to relax with the editorial page of the Times. Presently the conductor was shaking me and asking if I wanted to get off at Stamford or New Haven. He said he couldn't quite make up his mind whether I was a commuter or a Yale sophomore off for an evening's entertainment. Bill, the station taxi man, knows where I live, but I had to stay awake in order to make up my story about the business meeting. As I piled convincing detail upon detail I smiled to myself. Wasn't I the devil and what was it she had said about her lithographs? Well, after all, you're young only once.

Come Rude Awakening

Arrived at the Ridge, I took my shoes off and walked in boldly through the back kitchen door. A telegram was lying on the table. I'm long past night letter fever, for mostly they are nothing more than an inquiry as to when you can address the Women's Study Club in Spokane and what a pity it is that the organization has no funds. I opened the envelope idly, but then I blanched, for suddenly all the weight of my years came tumbling down upon my head like a rockslide on the Kensico Highway. The message was from a small college town in Pennsylvania, and it read: "Owing to liberal spring spending policy have run through May money Stop Please advance June stipend Stop Am also doing well in my studies Stop Love".

That conductor on the New Haven train must have been fooling when he said he thought I might be a Yale boy out on a spree. I was no boy but a man, and an old man at that, the head of the household, and the good provider. I took the slip of paper with the telephone number and threw it into the fireplace. Sitting down at my work bench, I started to compose a reply beginning, "You may be doing well in your studies, but you will have to learn that Pompon cannot beat War Admiral and that money doesn't grow on trees. Father has to work very hard to make both ends meet."

Lewis, Speaker and Hooper to Blame

But then I remembered a spring day during the Taft administration when I wired for $100. It turned out to be Blue Tuesday or Feroocious Friday or some other catastrophic day in the market, and I

Centralia 5 Pupils Join P.T.A. In All-Day Picnic

CENTRALIA, May 21.—Parents and friends of the Centralia school pupils, and P.T.A. members are holding the annual school picnic today at the Anaheim city park.

A second school activity of importance has been scheduled for next Friday when the annual reunion of graduates and former pupils of the school will be held. It is expected that a formal alumni organization will be effected with the duties of planning all future alumni events and promoting the interests of the school.

A variety of entertainment has been planned with games in the afternoon, a covered dish dinner, and a program during the evening in the new school auditorium. Reservations for the event are to be sent to Mrs. Wilton Abplanalp at Route 2, Box 220, Anaheim.

A capacity crowd witnessed the program presented Wednesday evening for the annual school night. Numbers included a skit, "Mother Goose's Garden," by students of the first and second grade, a radio review with impersonations of the various screen personalities by pupils of the third and fourth grades, "Down in Mexico" by fifth and sixth grade pupils, and a one-act play, "Elmer," with a cast of students of the seventh and eighth grades.

Student work for the year was on view throughout the afternoon and evening in the class rooms.

If only the Boston outfit had not been so good that year I might understand a lot more about the sanctity of the gold standard. However, just thinking about that spring of 1909 made me feel young all over again, and it turned out that there wasn't any fire in the fireplace.

JUDGE REITER WARNS AGAINST "STEPS OF A DICTATOR" WHEN HE TALKS AT LEAGUE SESSION

By GEORGE HART

Conceding that congressional opposition and the resignation of Justice Van Devanter probably has blocked President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the U. S. supreme court, Judge E. D. Reiter, of Los Angeles, nevertheless warned against "steps of a dictator," in a Santa Ana address last night, sponsored by the League For Supreme Court Independence.

The speaker's arraignment of the had approved all of the New Deal laws that were good. "The court," he said, "has not hampered liberty of the people, was combined with a bitter indictment of NRA, which he said represents one of two reasons why the president wants to control the court, the other reason being AAA. The supreme court rejected both of these New Deal measures as unconstitutional.

"Never Get Back"

NRA, said Judge Reiter, speaking as an attorney for "little business" in the oil industry, had seriously and permanently damaged the small, independent oil operators of California. Where the independents had 24.1 per cent of the business before NRA, they had only eight per cent at its close, and have since been able to attain only 11 per cent. "They'll never get it back," said the speaker, charging that NRA was drawn and fostered by national chamber of commerce leaders.

"These two measures, NRA and AAA, regiment agriculture, industry and business under control of New Deal minions who know nothing about your business, yet tell you just how you shall run it," said Judge Reiter, relating incidents of nonsensical and impossible orders issued to oil operators under the NRA regime.

"Honest to goodness, I could have gotten a better deal for Del Jones than he got," Anaheim's scouting police chief, James S. Bouldin said commenting on the Valencia athlete's $200 contract with Cleveland.

"And I could have gotten him a bonus."

Regardless of Del Jones' good fortune, the scouting police chief was given a severe jolt by the news that young Jones had hooked up with a club other than Los Angeles.

You can't blame him, either.

Jones is the most promising youngster from this year's high school ranks and one of the outstanding athletes Orange county has ever produced.

Generally, the Los Angeles baseball team does not know a good ball player when it sees one—much less give one a break after getting him signed to a contract.

Take Doug Wheeler for example.

The slender southpaw who last year was signed to a Los Angeles contract had to go back to Indianapolis before he was given a thorough tryout by real baseball men.

Wheeler had what it takes.

Now that the Reds have farmed him out as a first baseman in the Bi-State league, big-time ivory hunters are already dickered with his owners. What Los Angeles didn't want, the majors want.

Wheeler was a pretty good country pitcher and a fair outfielder. He played around the first corner in nightball. It was this that was his natural position.

Bartell Saves Giants

Bartell's blow brought the Giants victory from the brink of defeat. The score was 2-2 in the eighth when the Giants forged ahead, 3-2, on Bartell's triple and Joe Moore's outfield fly. Then the Cards went ahead, 4-3, on Brown's single, a walk to Terry Moore and Medwick's triple.

In the ninth Ott was an easy out. McCarthy was hit by a pitched ball. Manasco was safe at first when Brown booted his roller. Pinch-hitter Danning lined out. A wild pitch moved the two runners to third and second. George Davis batted for Fitzsimmons, and worked Weiland for a walk, filling the bases.

Warneke, who beat the Giants Tuesday, 4-3, came in to relieve Weiland.

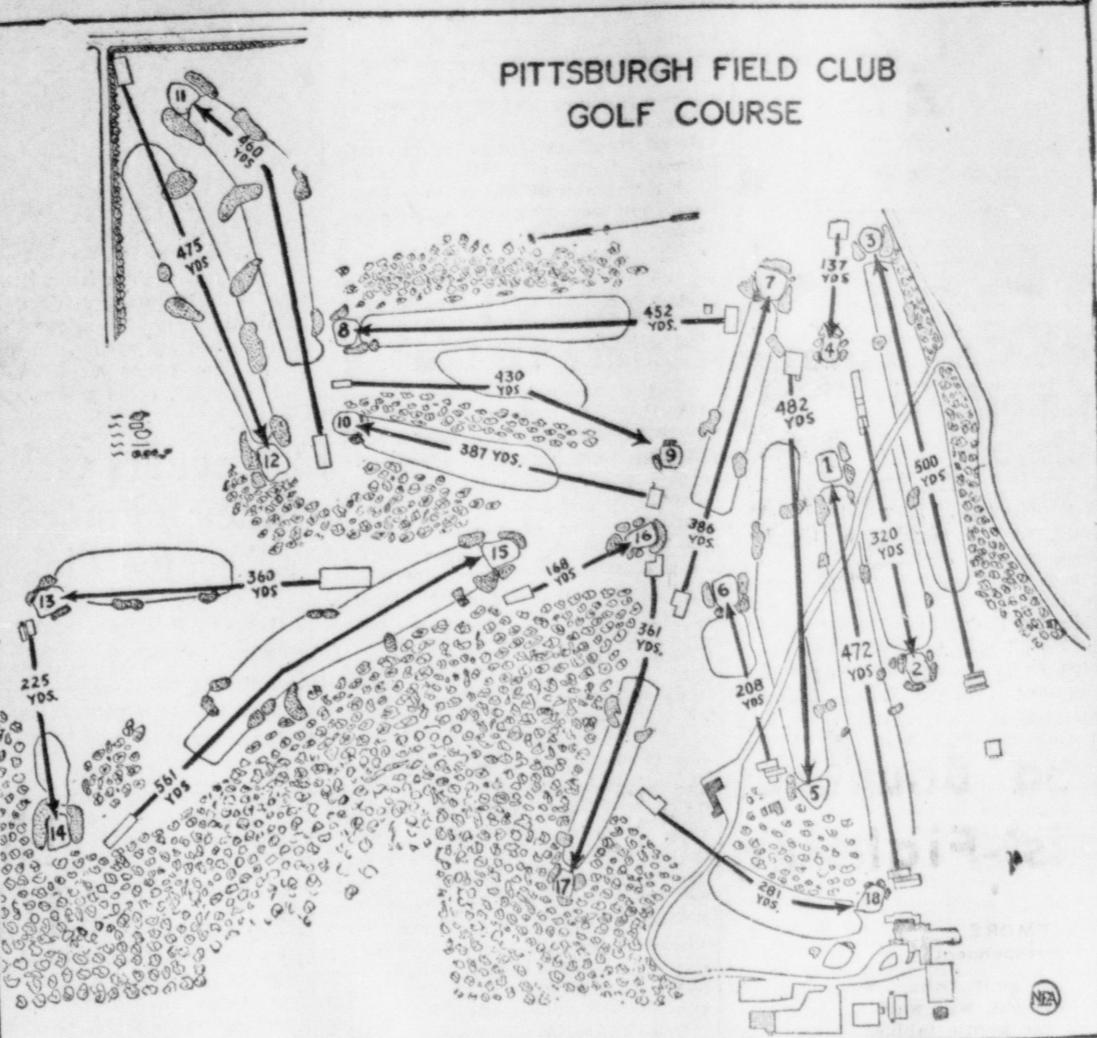

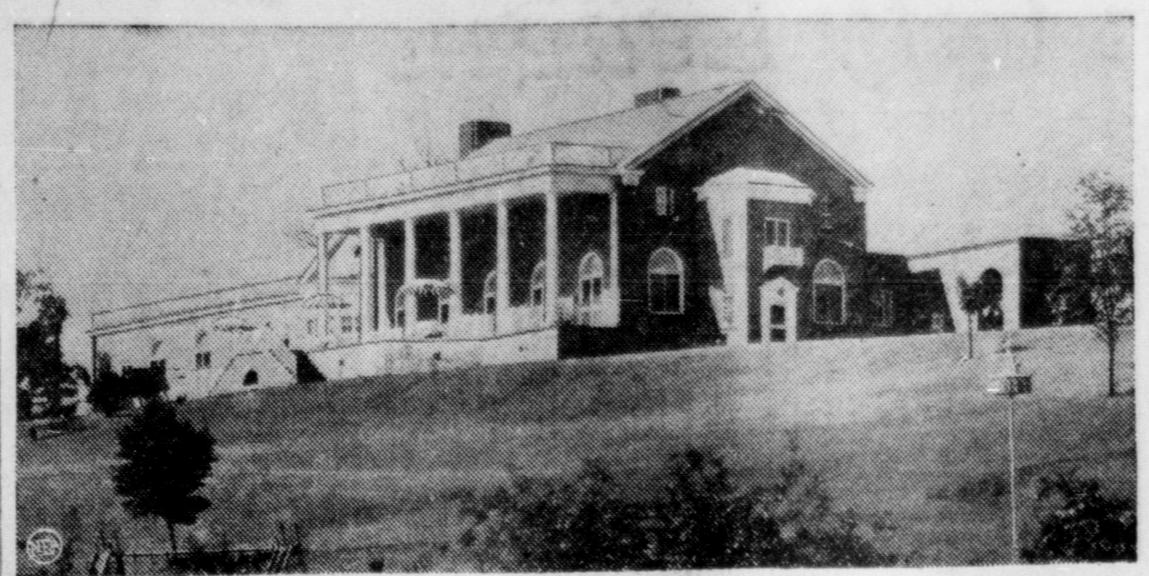

But when Bartell swung it was Katy-bar-the-door. The ball landed in the left field stands, and four Giant runs came in. It was Bartell's ninth homer of the season, one more than he made all last year.

Pittsburgh increased its National league lead to 41-2 games by beating the Phillies, 5-2. Bill Swift held the Phils to six hits. Woody Jensen hit a home run. The Chicago Cubs won their third straight by defeating Brooklyn, 6-1. They made only six hits off Van Mungo but one of them was a home run by Roy Parmelee with two on and another by "Gabby" Hartnett. Jim Turner, Boston rookie, held Cincinnati to five hits as the Bees won, 4-1. Vince DiMaggio hit two homers.

Los Angeles doesn't know a ball player when it sees one.

ABDICTION OF KING IS BLAMED ON CORONATION

LONDON, May 21.—(UPI)—George Bernard Shaw suggested today that maybe it was the coronation "tomfooleries" and not Mrs. Wallis Warfield that caused the Duke of Windsor to leave the throne.

In a letter to the weekly publication Time and Tide, Shaw wrote:

"In the coronation the symbols are not merely obsolete. They symbolize conditions which have been reversed. They represent the King's investment with powers he no longer wields and of which it cost us two revolutions and several decades to deprive him."

The clothes used are the clothes of William the Conqueror and Queen Matilda, transmogrified by generations of costumers into fancy dresses symbolic of nothing but the Russian ballet.

"If I were in the royal succession I'd renounce 50 limited monarchies sooner than go through such a ritual."

I should not be surprised to learn that Edward VIII flatly refused to endure its thousand year old tomfooleries and that this and not his diplomatic master stroke in marrying an American lady was the real cause of his abdication."

Mrs. Stutesman Is Party Honoree

COSTA MESA, May 21—Mrs. Walter Stutesman, formerly Miss Margaret Willcutt, was honoree at a party and miscellaneous shower given in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Willcutt, on Harbor boulevard last night complimenting her on her marriage on Easter Sunday. The home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Entertainment for the evening included piano numbers appropriate for the occasion, given by Mrs. Veda Thompson, and a reading by Mrs. G. G. Smalley. Mrs. Willcutt and Mrs. Ray O. Wells were co-hostesses for the reception.

Present were Mrs. D. C. Allen, Mrs. Lloyd Braddy, Mrs. G. G. Smalley, Mrs. Veda Thompson, Miss Naomi Knox, Mrs. William Cross, Mrs. Stutesman, Mrs. Jean Willcutt, Mrs. D. R. SOVIET BEAUTIES PARADE THEIR CHARMS

Not all Soviet parades are grim demonstrations of militarism. Buxom girl athletes, swinging with a song through the Red Square in Moscow, give their countrymen an eyeful of beauty and set as guard of honor to a series of big banners on which, printed in various languages, appears the classic communist rallying-cry: "Workers of the World, Unite!" The foremost banner in German, the next Spanish, the third Russian.

CRUIKSHANK WINS FIRST PLACE IN TOASTMASTERS' SPEECHES

George Cruikshank won first place and the trophy cup of El Camino Toastmasters club last evening in the popular vote.

In the club vote, members only, Braden Finch and Ferris Scott, president of the club, tied for first place. By consent of the two, it was awarded to Cruikshank.

It was "ladies night," with the largest attendance for many months the table topic, "Who's Boss in Your Family" brought out much wit.

Clubs Increase

Ralph Smedley, "father of toastmaster clubs," presided in the place of Scott, with W. H. "Ted" Blanding, former president, toastmaster of the evening. Smedley outlined purposes and practices of toastmasters clubs, stated that El Camino has charter number 15, and that there now are 84 clubs, an increase of more than 50 per cent during the past year.

Ernest S. Wooster, first speaker, talked on Revolutionary war days.

Finch spoke on "No Man's Land," the beauty shops and the orgaels endured by beauty seekers. Cruikshank moralized on real wealth under the topic, "What Have You Noticed?"

ROMEO, JULIET AT WES COAST TODAY

Santa Ana theatergoers thrilled again to a story of a boy and girl in love—a story as old as time, yet modern as today—the story of Romeo and Juliet, when the motion picture version of the immortal Shakespeare drama opened an engagement at the West Coast theater.

Shakespeare's immortal lovers live and love again, brought to life by Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard in "Romeo and Juliet," presented on the screen with all its drama, pathos, humor, spectacle and grandeur.

The picture marks the return of John Barrymore to the screen as the bawdy, roistering Mercutio, and others in the cast include Edna May Oliver, Basil Rathbone, C. Aubrey Smith, Andy Devine, Ralph Forbes, Reginal Denny, Maurice Murphy, Conway Tearle, Henry Kolker, Robert Warwick, Virginia Hammond, Violet Cooper and many other favorites.

With "Romeo and Juliet" is a second film, "Nobody's Baby," a fast-paced, rollicking comedy featuring Patsy Kelly, Lydia Robert, Lynne Overman and Robert Armstrong.

Selected short subjects on the program include a Walt Disney Silly Symphony cartoon in color, "Little Hiawatha," and World News events.

Mrs. Mary Leuhm Hostess To Club

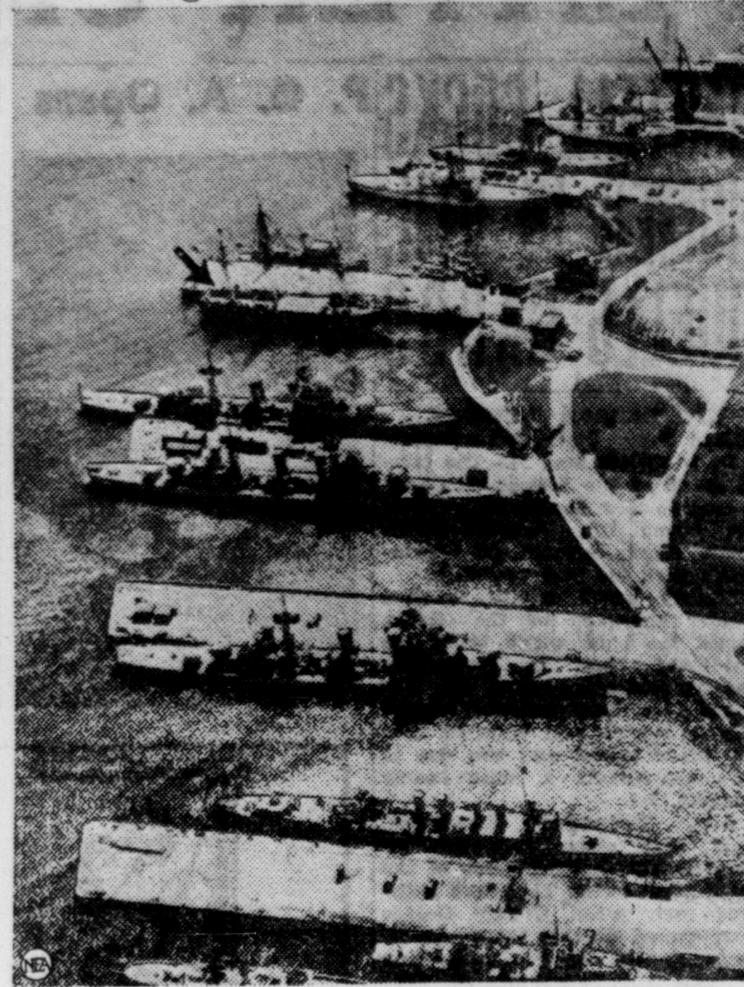

LA HABRA, May 21.—La Habra Senior Ladies club members were entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Mary Leuhm at her home on West Erna avenue. She was assisted by two of her daughters, Mrs. R. M. Jackson of La Habra and Mrs. Richard Voris of Covina. Mrs. Voris accompanied by Mrs. Jackson, sang four solos, as the entertainment feature of the meeting. Roll call was answered with clippings bearing household hints. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

Cyrus Morris, son of Mrs. Irene Morris of La Morris of La Habra has been selected to fill the vacancy on the faculty for a home teacher in La Habra. He has recently finished his course at Tempe, Arizona State college, is a graduate of the local schools, and the Fullerton high school and is quite an athlete.

Two positions on the faculty still remain open, that of a fifth grade teacher at the Lincoln school to be filled by a man with special instrumental music qualifications and that of a combination art, music and home economics teacher.

Zachary Taylor, from the time he was old enough to vote, never stayed in one place long enough to qualify as a voter, but he became President of the United States.

DEMOCRATS IN NEW UNION AT $5 PER MEMBER

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UPI)—The National Union for Collective Bargaining of Democratic Party Workers—admittedly a small but growing organization—today invited all eligible persons to join in an attempt to win a voice in party matters.

Walter L. Williams, its president, said that it would cost them $5 to join and that he is seeking affiliation with the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial organization.

Lewis has paid little attention to the organization which, at last reports, numbered six members. But today Williams announced he was receiving a "phenomenal response" to the idea.

"The flames of rebellion, fanned by years of broken promises, oppression and the necessity for groveling to petty tyrants, are sweeping the nation," he said.

"If any politician, office holder or candidate imagines he can thwart the high purposes of this union, no speech of Demosthenes can save his political innards from the vultures."

"In the words of Franklin Roosevelt, 'we are on our way.'

"And, in the words of John L. Lewis, 'we are going through'."

SOVIET BEAUTIES PARADE THEIR CHARMS

Not all Soviet parades are grim demonstrations of militarism. Buxom girl athletes, swinging with a song through the Red Square in Moscow, give their countrymen an eyeful of beauty and set as guard of honor to a series of big banners on which, printed in various languages, appears the classic communist rallying-cry: "Workers of the World, Unite!" The foremost banner in German, the next Spanish, the third Russian.

CRUIKSHANK WINS FIRST PLACE IN TOASTMASTERS' SPEECHES

George Cruikshank won first place and the trophy cup of El Camino Toastmasters club last evening in the popular vote.

In the club vote, members only, Braden Finch and Ferris Scott, president of the club, tied for first place. By consent of the two, it was awarded to Cruikshank.

It was "ladies night," with the largest attendance for many months the table topic, "Who's Boss in Your Family" brought out much wit.

Friends Honor Mrs. Mosey

Ralph Smedley, "father of toastmaster clubs," presided in the place of Scott, with W. H. "Ted" Blanding, former president, toastmaster of the evening. Smedley outlined purposes and practices of toastmasters clubs, stated that El Camino has charter number 15, and that there now are 84 clubs, an increase of more than 50 per cent during the past year.

Ernest S. Wooster, first speaker, talked on Revolutionary war days.

Finch spoke on "No Man's Land," the beauty shops and the orgaels endured by beauty seekers. Cruikshank moralized on real wealth under the topic, "What Have You Noticed?"

REORGANIZING OF HOUSE URGED

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Chairman John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., of the house rules committee, favors sweeping revision of congressional procedure as part of the administration's program to reorganize the federal government on an efficiency basis.

O'Connor wants an immediate reduction in the number of house committees—based upon their jurisdictional duties—and a simplification of the complicated rules structure written for the lower chamber by Thomas Jefferson.

He charged that present rules and committee setups "are 100 years behind the time." Those in the senate should not even serve for conducting a village meeting, he said.

"In the house, nothing has been done for 100 years to bring our procedure up to date," O'Connor said. "Instead of improving or coordinating conditions, any changes have been tacked on to existing procedure without regard to consequences."

He proposed as a solution of "red tape" complications:

1. Realignment and co-ordination of the present 45 house standing committees without increasing the number but eliminating those that function in name only and carry some patronage."

2. Revision of house rules, still based on those drafted by Thomas Jefferson.

"There could be, if anything, a reduction in the number of committees if they were realigned on the basis of their proper jurisdiction," O'Connor explained. "And some new ones—to meet modern conditions—could be created."

He said, for example, he had received several hundred letters during the past few weeks urging creation of a house committee to handle aviation legislation, which would include lighter-than-air, military and civil problems. At present, jurisdiction is split among the naval affairs, military affairs and interstate commerce committees.

INVENTORS PERFECT ALL THAT AUTOMOBILE MAKERS FORGOT

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP)—What the automobile makers forgot, the inventors remembered today and driving a car ought to be some fun, when, as and if.

The manufacturers of sedans make their vehicles self-starting, easy-stopping, automatic-clutching, effortless-shifting and a lot of other admirable things, but they never have done anything about making 'em self-steering.

That's where the apparatus of Roger C. Kenyon, LeGrand, Calif., patent No. 2,081,054, comes in handy. It's an automobile which steers itself—almost.

One Thing Lacking

As described by Kenyon for benefit of the U. S. patent office, his easy-park-puddle-jump-pedestrian-getter-arounder is a power steering system. There's a pump attached to the engine, which motivates a couple of plungers which turns the front wheels. It's as easy as that.

This machinery is controlled by an ordinary steering wheel. Turn it left, say, to dodge a telephone pole or whatever, and it rotates as easily as a radio dial. Kenyon's invention does all the work. The only thing lacking is an automatic thinker for use of the steering wheel-turner, but other inventors doubtless are working on that problem even now.

Automatic invention number two of the week is the bell-ringer of Charlie A. Phillips, Ness City, Kan. When a tire on an automobile equipped with this boon starts going flat, a bell begins to clang.

All There Is to It

The faster the car travels, the louder the bell peals. If all four tires go soft at once, the result is bedlam, like New Year's eve. It's either pump 'em up or get arrested for disturbance of the peace.

The third and final invention for motorists might appeal also to pedestrians. It's the matchless cigarette of D. C. Durden, Seattle, Wash., which lights itself.

It's got some gunpowder of some such impregnated in one end of it. The exact composition is Durden's secret. All he'll say is that it glows red when scratched. So you scratch the cigarette, instead of the match, and that's all there is to it.

CALLING • all DOGS

By Albert Payson Terhune

THE BETTER TO SEE YOU

ARE THEY COMPENSATED?

A reader asks me if dogs deprived of one sense are "compensated" by the sharpening of their remaining senses. That opens a field for conjecture. From experience with little blind Sunnybank Fair Ellen and from my observation of other dogs which never have seen, I know that certain senses are intensified fifty-fold, by the loss of sight. Hearing, scent, and apparently some mystic sixth sense, take the place of the lost functions to guide the sightless animal and to steer it away from obstacles.

Twice I have read of dogs whose sense of smell (by far the strongest of all canine senses) was destroyed through illness or accident and who developed eyesight and hearing far beyond their fellows. Sight and sound compensated them largely for the absence of smelling powers.

I have known of stone-deaf dogs which could catch certain vibrations inaudible to their fellows and were guided by these. Also, by watching for human lip-motions and signals, they made up, to some extent, for lack of hearing. I wish readers would tell me their experience with dogs, along these interesting lines.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(UP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House yesterday a joint resolution proclaiming May 28 to be National Aviation Day. The resolution was sponsored by the Army and Navy union which explained that May 28 was chosen because weather forecasters said that most propitious weather for flying will occur on that date.

Petitions for Associated student officers to serve Santa Ana Junior college next fall were in circulation on the local campus today. Officers to be elected early next month include, associated student president, vice president, secretary, treasurer.

Petitions must be signed by at least 25 Associated Students at the college to be official. Wednesday, May 26, is the deadline for all petitions.

Primary elections will be held Wednesday, June 2, and finals are to be the following Friday. Velma Kuechel is election chairman.

Nomination speeches for candidates will be heard at the last college assembly of the year, also on Wednesday, June 2. Try-outs for student body yell leaders also will be featured. Gil Evans and his Balboa Rendezvous orchestra has been engaged to play for this assembly.

FRAUD SCHEMES WORRY BRITAIN

LONDON—(UP)—"Share-pushers" are robbing the British public, widows and clergymen in particular, of more than $25,000,000 a year, Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, charged in issuing a warning against them.

The warning is to be sent all over the country, and millions of copies will be distributed by the post office, savings associations, the banks and other organizations in direct touch with the public.

The government's action was a surprise, since an important committee, under Sir Archibald Bodkin, former public prosecutor, is going into the whole question of sharepushing and has not yet reported.

The Cabinet took the view, however, that something should be done at once to prevent the tragedies to which many of the sharepushing frauds have led recently. The committee recommended the issue of a written warning.

Runciman gave several instances of successful frauds recently discovered. He pointed out that the victims of share-pushers were to be classed with those of blackmailers in their dislike of publicity.

It is understood that the government intends to tighten regulations relating to share deals.

LIFE INSURANCE HISTORY, TOPIC OF TALK HERE

"Life insurance is an American institution," Dr. D. Van Arsdale told members of the Santa Ana Lions club yesterday afternoon at the luncheon meeting in the Masonic temple.

Van Arsdale, dean of the life insurance educators, gave a brief history of insurance since the founding of the New England Mutual in 1835.

The first policies, however, were not written until 1843 when the New York Life Insurance company was founded, the speaker said. He pointed out that there now are more than 300 old line firms.

Improvements Cited

"While the life insurance business has been a century of operation, vast improvements have been made in the last 20 years," he declared.

The speaker pointed out that there are six different departments in the function of the life insurance companies and these are necessary in the system of money management.

"Life insurance is not a money-making institution," the speaker stressed. "But it is a system of money management to insure the productive money value of a person's life."

He also cited that the insurance institution has suffered through prejudice and misinformation.

Invest Money

In another portion of his talk, the former clergyman showed how life insurance concerns invest money and how they are restricted by law.

Life insurance is an American institution designed to be operated by honest men on a non-profit basis. The combined surplus goes to the policy holder, the stockholder, in the company, he said.

A report of the nominations committee was presented and approved and plans made for the coming Santa Monica Lions convention. Glenn Tidball was program chairman.

Goodwill Day Program Marks Meeting of Lowell Group

Climaxing the celebration of little Miss Joyce Elaine Brown's first birthday anniversary were christening ceremonies Wednesday night in First Methodist chapel. A reception in the church following the rites also came in honor of the little girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Brown, who were observing their tenth wedding anniversary. In addition the occasion marked the birthday anniversary of Mr. Brown.

So that there would not be too many festivities in one day, Joyce Elaine's party was held Tuesday, a day in advance of her natal day. The family home at 127 South Sycamore street was setting for the affair, shared by a group of very little children and their mothers.

A festive theme prevailed throughout the afternoon. Birthday cake designed as a merry-go-round was in the center of the table with a miniature circus tent which held favors for everyone. All appointments were in pink and white.

Children present in addition to the honoree were Sharon Paxton, Juanita Kibler, Erin Lee Burns, Mona and Helene Obermiller, Sandra Lee Paxton, Marlene Rose Popp, Ronald Mead, Jackie Rowe, Kenzie Paxton, all of this community and Jimmie Stinnett of Whittier.

Sharing the affair with Mrs. Brown were Mrs. J. L. Stinnett of Whittier and Mesdames Lawrence Mead, Harold Paxton, Ralph Rowe, Truman Kibler, Bert Obermiller, Kenneth Paxton, Charles Corson, Clifford Popp, Bud Burns and L. M. Crowder and Earl Vite.

When California Congress of Parents and Teachers convenes next Tuesday in Pasadena, there will be scores of Orange county residents present to take part in the opening features of an annual conclave, "Peace" Through Understanding" will be the general theme of the convention, which will be in session from May 25 through May 28.

Games were played informally during the evening, which climaxed when the hostess opened her array of gifts.

Guests included Velma Shipp, Phyllis Hammer, Tony Bigelow, Dorothy Valentine, Dorothy Young, Nayan McNeill and little Vera Vaught, sister of the hostess.

Harmony Music club, composed of piano pupils of Miss Arline Birchard, were presented in recital early this week in her new studios at 412 Fairview street. Mothers and friends were guests at the affair.

Those taking part were Virginia Wright, Eleanor Downing, Florence Griset, Joanne Hockaday, Jane Dowling, Beatrice Bambach and Eileen Bambach.

Wedding Cake Recipe Proves Boon To Modern Mothers

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

It's a wise mother who keeps her poise when her daughter elopes. Once married, the young couple might just as well be welcomed home. And it's an even wiser mother who keeps hidden in her private papers an "All Is Forgiven" cake which she can bake quickly when a run-away-marriage ruffles the even temperature of the kitchen range.

The recipe given below was created especially for readers of this page who may be called upon suddenly to provide a wedding cake after the baker closes his shop. It can actually be finished within 1 hour and appear at the unexpected wedding feast with all the charm and serenity of a cake baked weeks in advance.

Quick Wedding Cake

One 9-ounce package dry mince meat, 1-2 cup water, 1 1-3 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk, 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-4 cup butter or other shortening, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg.

Break mince meat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat, and stir until all lumps are thor-

Something no modern mother should be without—a recipe for an elopement cake. When the run-away-daughter phones home "John and I have just been married," Mother can say "All is forgiven, come right home" and bake this cake before the amorous runaways return—in less than one hour, that is.

oughly broken up. Bring to a boil, continue boiling for 3 minutes or until mixture is practically dry. Allow to cool. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler, add sweetened condensed milk and shortening and cook until mixture thickens. (About 5 minutes.) Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift again. Add to chocolate mixture. Add egg and beat mixture vigorously until thoroughly blended. Fold in cooled mince meat. Bake in buttered pan (8x8x2 inches) in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. For a large cake, double the recipe and bake in three deep 9-inch pans, buttered.

Bride's Frosting

Two tablespoons butter, 1-4 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 1-2 cups confectioners' (4X) sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Cream butter and sweetened condensed milk thoroughly. Add gradually the sifted confectionsugar and beat until the frosting is smooth, creamy and light in color. Other flavors than vanilla may be used. Spread on cold cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of two 9-inch layers on top and sides of loaf cake, or about 1-2 dozen cup cakes. This frosting may be tinted any color by the addition of a speck of food coloring. Pale tints are most attractive. Double the recipe for a large cake.

SANTA ANA IN FULLERTON P.T.A. TALK

FULLERTON, May 21.—Dr. George Warmer of Santa Ana in his lecture before the Maple avenue P.T.A. yesterday said that "doing away with special privileges and sharing was the one solution for the insuring of peace." Disarmament will never be effective, but a world program based upon sound economic principles is the surest way of achieving world peace. "War is destructive, never constructive," Dr. Warmer continued.

The women of the world are beginning to seek a better understanding of each other, and where there is understanding there is also tolerance."

Dr. Warmer was introduced by Mrs. J. Ashley Doss, program chairman. A short business session preceded the program. Miss Elsie Moore's fourth grade gave songs and readings. Numbers were also given by the sixth grade verse speaking choir, and Rita Ruth Rayne gave selections on the harp.

Mrs. Frank Strochein, president of the P.T.A. as a token of appreciation for the splendid work she has accomplished this year.

Mrs. Milas Walters, club president, reminded the members the June meeting would close the club year, and, as is customary, officers for the coming year will be installed. Mrs. Walters announced Mrs. Archibald Edwards, president of Orange County Federation of Women's clubs, will be present for the installation ceremonies.

Mrs. T. W. Billips introduced the club to the club, Mrs. O. B. Stirton of Laguna Beach, as her guest of the afternoon. Other guests who were introduced were Mrs. F. C. Alera and Mrs. J. Hileman by Mrs. E. A. Louderback.

Council Grants Permit For Signs

LAGUNA BEACH, May 21.—Reversing its position, expressed earlier in the evening, the Laguna Beach city council late Wednesday night, granted permission, previously refused, to Roy Vincent, owner of the two local movie houses, to place additional electric signs atop the marques of his Coast Boulevard theatre. In keeping with previously announced policy, the board had, early in the session, refused permission to erect the signs, despite pleas by representatives of the local movie man that the signs were all ready to erect.

Later, at midnight, Mr. Vincent appeared and, demanding the right to put up the signs, intimated that if permission were not granted, he would refrain from opening his theatre on Ocean avenue, now dark, and scheduled to reopen on June first. Apparently dazed by the novelty of Mr. Vincent's threat to refrain from competing with himself, three members of city council voted to grant permission, hitherto withheld, for the additional signs.

The trio voting "yes" were Messrs. Thomas Cummings, Randolph Bainbridge, and Howard G. Heisler. Mayor Luther F. McMillow and Councilman Charles H. Jester voted "no," in keeping with the board's previous action. The signs were placed, first thing Thursday morning.

The guest artist, Miss Helen Pifer of Anaheim, piano student of the Buttress studio and also a teacher of piano, played two modern compositions, "Dance Negre" by Cyril Scott, and "Fire Dance." Miss Pifer was presented by Mrs. J. Ashley Doss.

Echoes from the convention recently held at Coronado were given by Mrs. George Lillie, Mrs. W. C. McFarland, Miss Emily Cuff, Mrs. Frank Rospaw and Mrs. W. H. Bates, delegates from the Placentia Round Table club to the California Federation of Women's clubs.

It will be given for him by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Locke of Hollywood with whom he resides. Mrs. Locke, a descendant of the Yerba family, is a step-daughter of Mr. De la Guerra. More than 150 guests are expected at the afternoon barbecue at the Locke ranch home here, among them will be a cousin, Leo Carrillo, the noted motion picture star.

PLAN GRADUATION

PLACENTIA, May 21.—Graduation exercises for the Placentia Unified district will be held the week of June 7, according to announcement of A. P. Patten, superintendent of schools. The first will be Wednesday, when the three classes from the Mexican schools will have exercises at the new Placentia Unified School district auditorium. The Valencia High school class will have exercises June 10. The grammar school class of Bradford school likely will hold their exercises on Tuesday night, although that date has not been set as yet.

INFANT GARDEN PRODIGIES

By LYDIA C. DAVIS

Landscape Architect

There are many other fast growing plants besides the native ones mentioned last week. A shrub that keeps its good looks is cotoneaster pannosa. With some fertilizing it will be a respectable shrub in a year's time. It has large leaves, for this family, big bunches of red berries, and the branches clothe it from the ground up, so that it never gets "leggy" as do some of the other cotoneasters. Recently it was seen pruned, and trained against a wall of the Albert Heinecke home, corner of Tustin Ave., and E. Santa Clara Ave., where it looked very nice indeed. Cotoneaster pannosa, the Silver-leaf Cotoneaster, which we see so much, reaches several feet in a year or two, but takes longer to fill in. As it eventually tops 10 feet, it should not be planted under the windows of a small house. Its beauty lies in its gracefully arching branches, so when pruning it, remove entirely some of the larger branches that have borne berries. Never clip it neatly all over.

Another shrub growing in the same arching way is Abelia grandiflora, though it wears its skirts near the ground. It should also be pruned by removing entirely the old branches. This way of pruning leaves room for plenty of new shoots to grow from the base. A newer variety is Abelia Schumannii, but it does not get quite so tall, and the flowers are larger and brighter in color.

A rather rapid grower that meets all the requirements for a sunny foundation plant, with dark, shining leaves; sweet flowers, and good habits, is Carissa grandiflora, the Natal Plum. It is a little tender, and some of the bushes were nipped by the frosts of last winter. Nice specimens can be seen in front of the office of Dr. Willis P. Baker, on E. 7th St., just north of the Post Office, where they have been growing for only two years.

Pittosporum tobira is useful as a large foundation plant, or in the shrubbery, were its good dark green color and dense habit of growth, make it much in demand. Its taller cousins, Pittosporum undulatum, and Pittosporum tenuifolium, make small trees, so they belong towards the rear of a shrub planting. The last does not cover to the ground very well but looks fine with smaller shrubs in front. In the shrubbery also goes the Australian Tea Tree, Leptospermum lavagatum. It has to be handled like a native when it comes to good drainage, water, and sun, but it can grow very fast.

Some of the smaller growing pyracanthas, which supply so many winter berries, can be used about foundations. Most of them belong in the shrub border, where they lose no time in covering the ground, as witness the mass to the south of the Post Office building.

Different from most of these, and something all should try to have for cutting, is our old friend, the Pussy Willow, Salix discolor. For that purpose, in the spring after the catkins are off it should be cut back to within a foot or two of the ground. It will then grow lots of slender stems for next year's "pussies," and be a more bushy bush. The branches may be put in water weeks earlier by peeling the catkins. This is done when the sheaths covering the "pussies" first begin to crack, and are removed by pushing up with the thumb nail under a little bump at the base. The catkins will gradually unfold in the house and prolong the season.

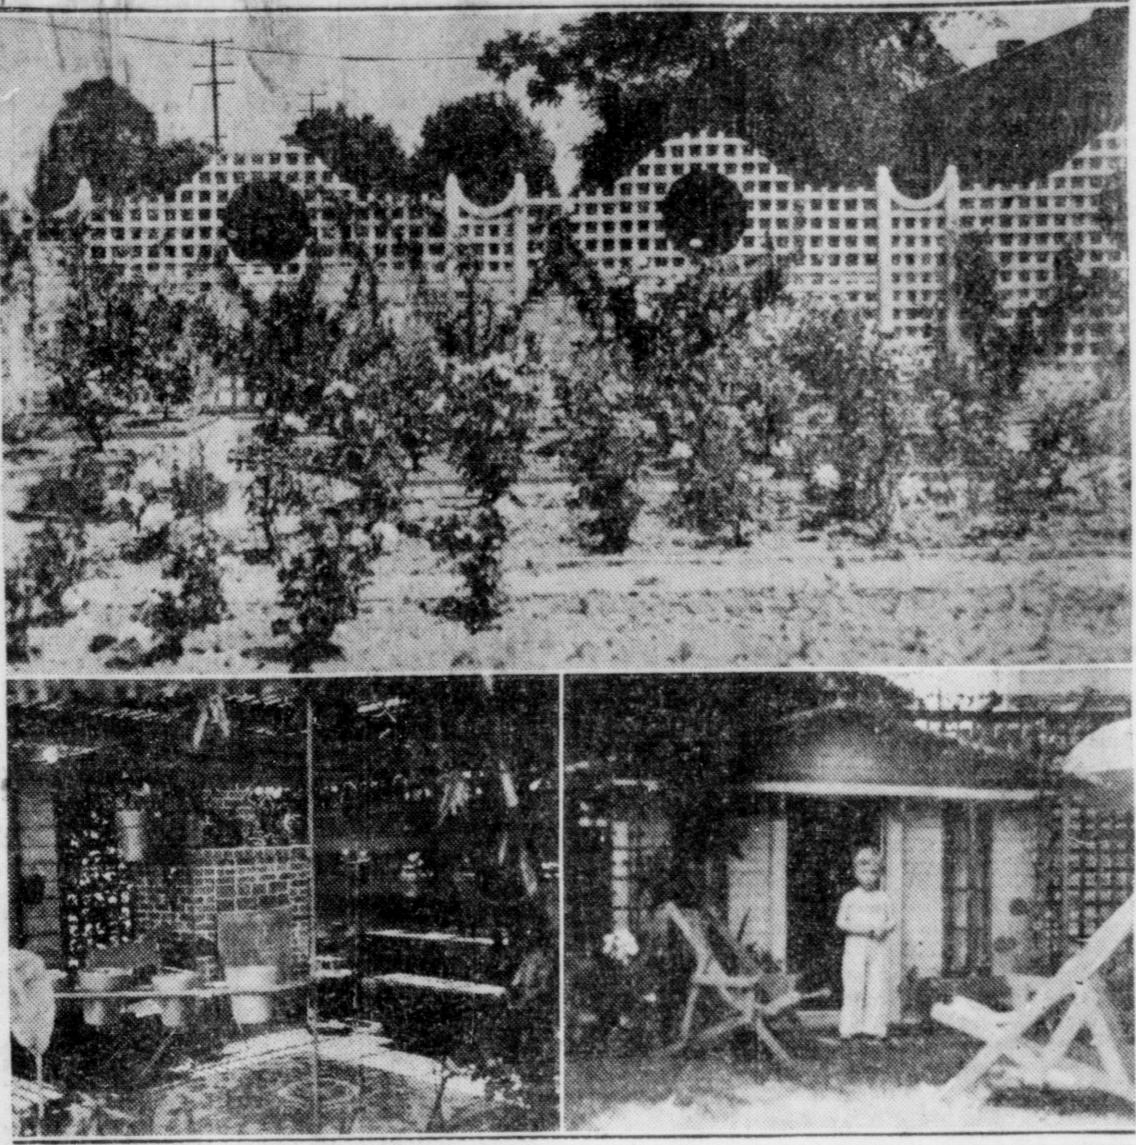

Another family of fast growers, are the Escalloniae, which range from large shrubs or small trees, to bushes three or four feet high. They need a pruning each winter to make them thicker up, and to force out new shoots so that they are always fresh looking. Again this does not mean clipping all over, but a cutting back of some of the main branches down into the body of the plant. They have shiny leaves, and pink, red, or white flowers, and make very satisfactory plants for foundation planting, or for the shrub border, in the case of the large ones.

Golden Dew-drop is the common name for Durantia plumieri, and quite describes the bunches of creamy-yellow berries that follow the blue flowers that look like miniature pansies. It will grow ten to twelve feet tall, and even more if trained as a semi-climber against a wall. It is a little tender, and likes plenty of water, but is worth having for its year-round beauty.

The Mexican orchid grows with its roots upward, its blossoms downward.

BEAUTY SPOTS IN ORANGE COUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Archibald, West Chapman avenue, Orange, found that a vacant lot at the east of their rose garden detracted from the lovely spot. They solved the problem of hiding it from view by erecting a lattice-work fence of an unusual design which is shown in the upper picture. Archibald, who is an instructor in the manual training department of the Orange Union high school, designed the fence which has been of sufficient interest to be photographed or sketched by numbers of visitors planning to build similar ones. At present 150 varieties of roses are growing in the garden and the number is to be increased to 300. Below, at the left, is shown the grill and summer house for adult members of the H. A. Coburn family, 513 East Washington avenue, and at the right is the attractive playhouse built for the little daughter of the home, Jacqueline Coburn. The playhouse is fitted with miniature furniture with small garden chairs at the door. The size of the playhouse may be judged from the fact that the little boy standing in the doorway is between two and three years old. Lovely pools and flowers add to the attractiveness of the gardens.

PLANT FOOD INTENSIFIES FLOWER COLORS

You can prove to your own satisfaction the benefits of feeding flowers with a complete balanced plant and leaving an adjacent portion unfed. You will find the color intensified in the fed flowers, there will be more bloom, and the plants will be much more resistant to disease and insects. Complete, balanced readily available plant food is now easily obtained from your seed dealer, florist or nurseryman.

The spring flowering bulbs, herbaceous perennials, annuals and roses all benefit from a regular feeding program. Here is a feeding schedule to remind you when to feed your flowers.

Lawns

NO MATTER how good your lawn was last year or how well it has come through the winter, it needs a good raking—rolling and fertilization. A moderate reseeding will help to thicken grass this summer.

IN SOWING grass seed it is best to broadcast in two directions—at right angles to each other and using one-half of the seed each way.

WHERE GRADING has been done on your new lawn, be sure the ground has fully settled before you seed it. It is difficult to get rid of the unevenness after grass has come.

THE PRESENCE of moss on your lawn indicates either a sour or impoverished soil. For the first, apply hydrated lime and for the second use a good quality of fertilizer. Practically any soil, however, will benefit by an application of lime followed a week or two later by fertilizer. Do not apply both too close together.

WHETHER on the lawn or in the garden, deep moisture encourages deep rooting. One thorough wetting that gets the water down, is better than several light sprinklings.

AFTER YOU HAVE applied Lawn Enricher or fertilizer, go over the lawn with the back of the rake so as to remove it from the leaves and then wet thoroughly so that the fertilizer will get down to the roots.

RAKE YOUR GRASS before cutting. Crab grass and other weeds lie close to the ground and this makes sure getting cut. With most weeds, the growth is at the ends while with grass it is at the base.

GRASS is fully hardy and a lawn that is vigorous and in good condition should not be protected during the winter, in fact protection does more harm than good.

If a plant is worth planting, it should be worth knowing. Use water-proof lead pencils for marking names on labels.

Try These For Fine Flavor

Those who like the subtle flavor imparted to cooking when herbs are used, should also grow three root crops which are highly esteemed by good judges. These are celeriac, rooted parsley and leeks. Celeriac is also called rooted celery; it has a celery-like flavor, but is always cooked, and is considered to surpass by far cooked celery. Likewise the rooted parsley, cooked with stews, imparts a super-parley flavor. These are long-season root crops, which should be sown early and harvested in the early fall. They keep well in storage.

Leeks, which belong to the onion family, do not make bulbs. They resemble green onions, but are several times as large, and are never eaten raw. Their flavor is like the onion, but with a difference over which enthusiasts rave. There is a special technique in growing leeks. Sow the seed in a nursery row, then transplant the plants when they are as large as a pencil, using this method: Make a hole with a dibber about 4 inches deep, and an inch in diameter. Drop the plants in with just enough earth to cover the roots, but do not fill the hole further. It takes about four months to mature the crop.

Roses: Feed in the early spring, at the rate of one rounded tablespoonful to each square foot of space around the bush. It is important that this first application be made as soon as the first color shows in the buds, make a second feeding of half this quantity. Feed every 30 days until the middle of August.

Annuals sown directly in beds: Prepare the seedbed thoroughly and apply four pounds of complete plant food to the 100 square feet of surface area. Rake this lightly into the soil, mixing well before sowing seed. When buds appear, feed again, giving half this amount.

Annuals transplanted from flats or cold frame: You may apply the plant food when preparing the bed, as directed above for annuals sown where they are to remain; or you may mix thoroughly one level tablespoonful of complete plant food with the soil in the bottom of the hole, before setting out the plant. Feed again when buds appear.

Sweet Corn Goes Hybrid

First generation hybrid sweet corn is becoming almost as popular as the hybrid field corn which is so widely planted on the farms. Yields averaging 25 percent greater are produced by the sweet corn hybrids. Many of them are bred with power to resist Stewart's disease, and give a crop in localities where this pest is prevalent and where standard strains might fail. The first generation hybrid is distinctly a product of scientific breeding. Two parent strains are chosen, each for a quality different from the other, and they are planted in alternate rows. The tassels of the mother strain are removed, so that pollen falls from the father strain only. The hybrid grains which the mother plants bear show a combination of both parents, plus most exceptional vigor and yield. But these grains, if sown in turn, will not reproduce their kind, but will show a sad mixture. Both parent strains must be grown each year for breeding purposes only.

So full were we of our imaginations, that when we went last to the little park for our box luncheon, we were a bit subdued. But, with luncheon over, we were well, it's a grand idea, this not waiting until tomorrow to be happy. As my thought rests for a moment on first one and then another of this group of women, I think how well they have all learned that secret. "It's because they are gardeners." Philosophy might murmur. But that somehow gets the cart before the horse. I still am inclined to think they had little gardens of happiness in their hearts before they were in the ground.

WINDOW BOX PLANTINGS

Next to flower gardens in front yards, nothing would do more to add beauty to our too somber American cities than widespread adoption of the fashion for window boxes.

To make and plant a window box takes very little skill. A good window box should be at least six inches deep and eight inches wide, and as long as required to fit the window, except that when more than three feet long they are difficult to handle.

Constant exposure to moisture and air makes it necessary to build them of the most durable materials. Cypress is the most satisfactory wood. Florists prefer a grade called pecky cypress, which has the appearance of being worm-eaten and is even better than a higher grade to withstand the wet. Red cedar and white pine are also suitable.

The box should be painted the same color as the house, or its trim. Several holes half an inch in diameter should be bored in the bottom of the box to drain off excess water. For soil a mixture of three parts garden loam, one part leaf mould, and one part well decayed manure is recommended. This is what florists call good potting soil and may be obtained from florists.

A list of plants suitable for window boxes on a sunny side of the house, east, south or west, includes these which grow upright: Ageratum, begonia, semperflorens, dwarf canna, euphorbia, geraniums, heliotrope, lobelia, mimulina, nasturtiums, nicotiana, petunias, grevillea, and sweet alyssum.

Trailing plants include the balcony type petunias, tall nasturtiums including Golden Gleam, ice plant, lantana, trailing lobelias, and dwarf morning glories.

For shady locations, impatiens, tuberous rooted begonias and various ferns are recommended.

Annals For Flower Show

Good subjects for display in flower shows are found among annuals which are seldom used for that purpose. For example, the annual sunflowers, especially the new dwarf chrysanthemum flowering strain; the annual chrysanthemums, notably Morning Star, the largest of all; Calandula Radice, the Russian statice, Sauerowia, and the Sweet Sultan, or centaurea imperialis. All show flowers should be grown with plenty of room for their roots to feel in, without competition from weeds or other plants. By reducing the number of flowers to a plant, larger blossoms may be produced.

Amaranthus caudatus, the blue pimpernel, is a dwarf creeper with trailing stems with blossoms of a real turquoise blue. It should have a warm, sunny place and the seeds should be sown after the ground warms up, in the place where the plants are to grow. They flower freely and spread rapidly.

Nasturtiums are among the tenderest of annual flowers, and should never be sown until all danger of frost is over. Yet they do not like the hot sun, and are likely to thrive better in light shade in a place where they can be well watered. The new fragrant double strains have awakened new interest in this family. If you have tried some of the new hybrids with indifferent success do not let that discourage you from trying them again, especially the newest dwarf flowering type. They are being constantly improved.

Malva neglecta, the common mallow, is a tall, branching annual with clusters of flowers in shades of pink, red, yellow and white. It is a good annual for the flower show, especially the double forms.

Annuals sown directly in beds: Prepare the seedbed thoroughly and apply four pounds of complete plant food to the 100 square feet of surface area. Rake this lightly into the soil, mixing well before sowing seed. When buds appear, feed again, giving half this amount.

Annuals transplanted from flats or cold frame: You may apply the plant food when preparing the bed, as directed above for annuals sown where they are to remain; or you may mix thoroughly one level tablespoonful of complete plant food with the soil in the bottom of the hole, before setting out the plant. ANNE'S DIARY

"—and even a mere dirt garden—walks with the high and glorious." Last month, Mr. Editor, you left off that last line. If you must "lift," my intimate scribblings, I pray you, give me my woman's right to the last word. Just a casual incident in a writer's life. I hear you say, WELL, I think I'll stick to gardening.

AND how I'd like more space to garden in! I might have known that's what would happen to me if I went to Armstrong's Nurseries in Ontario for our club meeting! I want to plant everything I saw. Especially do I want to plant trees! I found myself making my way to the nice blue-eyed man who conducted us about, and he said, "when people are renters they should plant rapidly growing trees, like the jacaranda." The jacaranda! Here I've seen its blue petals falling through my dreams for years, and always supposed it would take a long time to mature.

Truly, a place like Armstrong's is well called a nursery—a nursery where baby dreams come into being. But how they grow, those dreams. The blue-eyed man points to a little plant and says, "This is Mahonia aquifolium," (Oregon grape to you.) And at once the little plant climbs out of its can and hangs its misty blue berries against a gray wall—at least, I provided a gray dream-wall for mine, but Jerry Walker must have seen her's on a white Spanish house, and a sea wind stirred through Dove Harrison's. That's the joy of dream-gardens! Each of us plants his own mental garden long before a spade of earth is turned. I think these generous nursery men, at home and abroad, know that fact, and do not dismiss us over much.

Two guests were with us, Juanita Jordan, of Garden Grove, who was once one of us, (and so must always remain one of us), and a prospective member, Millicent Vorce. She devotes to us through the natural law of kinship. She is the "giving" kind, who dashes out in the moonlight to dig up her plants to share with you. She reminds me of my brother who once, upon my arrival at his home at night, took me out to see his garden with a flash light.

Well, it's a grand idea, this not waiting until tomorrow to be happy. As my thought rests for a moment on first one and then another of this group of women, I think how well they have all learned that secret. "It's because they are gardeners." Philosophy might murmur. But that somehow gets the cart before the horse. I still am inclined to think they had little gardens of happiness in their hearts before they were in the ground.

There is another blue-flowered vine which grows nicely in shade, requiring a little more sun than hardenbergia, and that is Bignonia violacea, one of the vigorous growing trumpet vines. It has luxuriant dark green foliage, and large trumpet flowers of delicate violet, borne in late winter and early spring. This magnificent vine should not be overlooked by anyone who has a partially shady position for a vine.

One of our most delightfully perfumed vines will thrive in semi-shade, even in full shade, the star jasmine (Rhytidospernum, or Trachelospernum, jasminoides). Strong growing, though in my experience, a little slow to start, medium large, thickish leaves closely covering the vine, and myriads of little star-shaped white fragrant flowers in spring and early summer. By DONALD GRAY

Shrubs will live forever if the old wood is removed and new growth allowed to take its place, but this need not be a yearly operation. It depends on the individual plant as to when and how much of its wood should be cut off.

Here are some general rules about pruning:

1. Have a reason for making every cut.
2. Make each cut just above a bud.
3. Make the cut on the diagonal.
4. Do not leave a stump of a limb. Take it off close to the trunk.
5. If the stub of the cut-off limb is one inch or more in diameter, cover the wound with paint not containing turpentine.
6. Use pruning shears all season. Cut off seed pods as soon as the flower falls. Cut out branches of shrubs and trees that are rubbing or growing out of bounds, and keep plants within their areas without making them look "balled" or unnatural.

The box should be painted the same color as the house, or its trim. Several holes half an inch in diameter should be bored in the bottom of the box to drain off excess water. For soil a mixture of three parts garden loam, one part leaf mould, and one part well decayed manure is recommended. This is what florists call good potting soil and may be obtained from florists.

MARKET TO GIVE AWAY 2000 CAKES

Two thousand Santa Anans will receive individual birthday cakes tomorrow commemorative of the fifteenth anniversary of Grand Central Market. Some of the more fortunate of the 2000 people will receive prize cakes containing cash prizes, according to George H. Boardman, manager of the market.

Boardman said today that the officers of the Santa Ana Development Company, owners of the market, have ordered 2000 individual cakes to mark the anniversary. Some of the cakes, he said, will contain cash prizes.

Starting at 10 a. m. these cakes will be given away at a booth to be located next door to Arthur's Do-nut Shop. All-day suckers will be given to all children visiting the market.

Special decorations have been placed in the market to add to the holiday spirit marking the shopping center's anniversary. Special loud speakers have been installed to broadcast radio music during the entire day.

All merchants holding concessions in the market have combed the markets for merchandise to be offered at special birthday bargain prices, according to Boardman. These special merchandising features will be continued for one week.

SANTA ANA'S "CITY UNDER ONE ROOF"

GRAND CENTRAL MERCHANTS SPECIALISTS IN OWN LINES

Practically every merchant in the Grand Central Market is a specialist in his own line and offering a special service to Santa Ana shoppers.

For instance there is Bert Jeanes, proprietor of the Grand Central Fish Market. Jeanes is the only fish and sea food dealer in the county who can give a personal guarantee for almost every fish sold in his place of business.

That is because Jeanes is the only fish dealer who operates his own fishing boats and catches practically all the fish he offers for sale, the same day it is sold.

Eliminating the middleman in the handling of sea foods Jeanes assures his patrons of the lowest possible price on his product.

Charles Miller is another specialist. He operates Charlie's cafe in the center of the market. To assure his patrons of the very best foods prepared tastily and in the most sanitary manner Miller does his own cooking and directs operations of the cafe from the kitchen. All food served in this cafe is absolutely fresh being purchased daily from other merchants in the market.

Old timers in Santa Ana and Orange county naturally think of W. McGimpsey when they think of groceries. He has been in the grocery business in the county for the past 34 years and, during that time, created for himself a reputation for handling only the best merchandise at competitive prices.

McGimpsey operates one of the grocery concessions in the market and has as patrons some of his customers who have traded with him since his first grocery venture.

Centrally located in the market Brooks' Better Produce concession has created a steady and enthusiastic patronage through offering only the best of fresh vegetables and fruit at competitive prices.

One of Orange county's finest grocery stores is the Wiegand Grocery on the Second street side of the market and operated by Henry Wiegand. This store, operating on the self-service plan features high quality groceries at cut rate prices.

Across the aisle from the Wiegand grocery is the Banner Produce company, operated by Ray Williams. This is one of Orange county's largest and busiest fruit and vegetable stands and owes a great deal of its success to the fact that only the very freshest fruits and vegetables are offered for sale. Practically all produce sold in this stand is brought in fresh each morning.

FOUR SPEEDERS TO PAY FINES

Four speeders and four boulevard stop jumpers paid fines to City Judge J. G. Mitchell Wednesday.

The speeders included Harvey Emley, Garden Grove, $10; Sam Cuthbert, South Pasadena, $6; Harry Outland, Cypress, $6; and William Lamoreau Jr., San Marino, $6. Blaine S. Farthing, Long Beach; Claude Patton, Long Beach; E. A. Brennan, Santa Ana, and George Silvers, Santa Ana, each paid $6 for boulevard stop violations.

Alex Risner, route 3, Anaheim, pleading guilty to signal jumping, paid $2 fine, and Len Carey, Long Beach, the same for passing on the right.

Police yesterday ticketed six speeders, a reckless driver, James W. Scheurich, local youth, whose borrowed car collided with a police car, and a motorist who failed to obey a stop signal.

Judge Mitchell sent Lynn Petersen, Santa Ana, to jail for 60 days on a vagrancy conviction.

Boyles, charging cruelty; Everett Pickrell, charging cruelty; Eubeso Chavez against Delfina Chavez, charging cruelty; Ruby V. Goss against Ernest Goss, charging cruelty; Paul R. Adair against Hannah E. Adair, charging cruelty.

CHARLES NORTON, California mining promoter.

Yesterday Bob, returning to New York, learned the terrible news from Sybil. She also revealed the secret. Joan, too, informed the police suspect her. Bob determines to find Joan, their secret.

CHAPTER XXVII

As they drew up in front of the little white cottage, Bob's eyes grew wide at the pandemonium which enveloped it. Police officers, curiosity seekers, newspaper reporters and camera men—their shrill voices raised in querulous inquiry—gave the place a carnival atmosphere. Bob pictured Mr. Hendry's fury could he ever have visualized such desecration.

Sybil and Bob rushed past the crowds without and entered the house. The police had taken command, and they seemed to swarm over the place, scrutinizing, measuring, searching.

Bob restrained himself with an effort. These fools had tried to pin the blame on Joan . . . on his own beloved Joan. He wanted to have it out with them physically, to choke the words down their throats, with his own bare hands!

As Sybil introduced them personally, Inspector Kennedy must have sensed some of the turmoil going on within him, for his voice was kindly.

"A terrible case, Mr. Andrews," he observed, gently. "Mr. Hendry was such a fine man, in every way . . . You've known him several years, I understand?"

"Ten years," Bob replied. "I've been in the organization that length of time."

Kennedy hesitated a moment.

"Then: 'Suppose we discuss the case privately,'" he suggested. "We can go up to Mr. Hendry's room."

The two men went into the small library adjoining Mr. Hendry's bedroom, and Kennedy shut the door behind them. He sat down, motioning Bob to a seat.

"Mr. Andrews," he said, still kindly, "I know how you feel. Miss Hendry has doubtless discussed the case with you—but I don't want you to get the impression that the police are deliberately trying to wrong you—or Miss Barrett."

"At what time was that?"

"We took the 11:10 out of Green Hills."

"Believe me, we're trying not to."

Prisoner Pleads Guilty To New Charge In Court

Already in county jail serving a six months' sentence on a bad check conviction, T. O. Hunt, Santa Ana, went before Justice Kenneth Morrison yesterday and pleaded guilty to a charge he failed to support his child.

Having 141 days yet to serve on the check conviction, Hunt was ordered to serve that many days on the non-support guilty plea, sentence to run concurrently with the remainder of the six months' sentence. Hunt will work for the county, during the 141 days, the county to pay $25 for support of the child. After his release, Hunt must continue to pay $20 per month for the child's support for two years. Hunt was seriously injured some months ago in a traffic crash.

WASHINGTOM, May 21.—(UP) Members of the California and Nevada congressional delegations demanded today that the house rivers and harbors committee attach a compromise rider to the proposed Bonneville dam legislation to permit lowering of interest rates on Boulder dam power repayment contracts.

The "compromise" was reached this morning after conferences among representatives of California, Nevada and the interior department.

Sen. Key Pittman, D., Nev., spokesman for the group, said that it would be backed also by the Arizona congressional delegation.

Terms of the compromise—advocated to permit Boulder power to compete with that from Bonneville, which can produce it cheaper—call for a lowering of the present four per cent interest rate on its investment charged on Boulder power contract to three per cent.

Grand Central Market To Celebrate 15th Birthday

GRAND CENTRAL MERCHANTS ARE NOT 'DRIFTERS'

Merchants operating concessions in the Grand Central Market are not "drifters." This is demonstrated by the fact that, doing business in the same location today, are eight merchants who have been located in the market since its opening 15 years ago.

Among the real old timers who opened with the market is Fred Triplett, proprietor of the California Cleaners and Florists'. Triplett opened his place on the same day the market opened and has continued to grow with the market. His growth is based upon honest values and conscientious work.

Another old-timer who opened his concession the day the market threw open its doors is E. R. Urbine who operates the meat market on the Sycamore street side of the market. Selling only the finest of government inspected meats Urbine has created a following that is ample proof that quality and service is appreciated by the buying public.

While not opening at exactly the same time as the market, John L. Wilde, proprietor of the Stana Grist Mill is one of the establishment's pioneer merchants. In his shop he specializes in health foods, cereals and natural food products.

Charles Eaton is another of the pioneers who helped to open the market. Operated a bakery in the center of the main building Eaton bakes all products sold in his bakery, in shop at the rear of his establishment. Learning his bakers' trade in the navy Eaton has adhered to the rule of rigid cleanliness and high quality product.

One of the oldest and finest meat markets in the building is the Broadway Meat Market, operated by George Klamm, just inside the Broadway entrance. The market

Special Prices Will Feature Event Which Opens Here Tomorrow

Grand Central Market, Santa Ana's "City Under One Roof", celebrates its fifteenth birthday tomorrow. With special celebration planned for the one day, the market through its individual merchants, will observe its birthday all next week through the offering of special prices on merchandise.

Fifteen years ago the Grand Central Market, representing the dream of a group of Santa Ana men, was opened in the block bounded on the north by Second street, the south by First, Broadway on the west and Sycamore street on the east.

Officers of Company It was the idea of sponsors of the market to offer Santa Anans a shopping center where all needs could be supplied under one roof. The growth of Grand Central Market is proof of the success of their idea.

Officers of the Santa Ana Development company, owners of Grand Central Market are: A. N. Zerman, president; Linn L. Shaw, treasurer; Roy Russell, vice president; H. K. Work, vice president and attorney and H. C. Head, attorney. George H. Boardman is manager of the market.

Civic-Minded Just a word about these merchants is apropos at this time. According to Boardman, every merchant in the market is an independent resident owner of his business. Local people are employed in all the concessions and the proprietors are active in civic affairs and community development.

The market maintains a free parking lot on First street that is always available to customers. On busy days an attendant is in charge of cars parked in the lot and will assist in parking cars. Red cap boys are always available to assist in carrying purchases to the parked automobile, regardless of whether it is parked in the market lot or on a side street. This service is always without cost.

Parking Space Merchants in the market building are in active competition with each other, assuring patrons the lowest prices possible when quality merchandise is considered.

The one thing that has made Grand Central Market the most popular shopping center in the city is the fact that practically every need of the average family may be supplied in the one building. Parking the automobile in the market lot, one may take advantage of the postal service offered through the branch post office, obtain an excellent meal in either of the two restaurants in the building, patronize one of the two barber shops, or the beauty shop, have shoes shined or repaired, clothes cleaned or pressed, watch repaired, automobile services, obtain service for radios or vacuum cleaners and electrical appliances and trade at the greatest food center in the city.

has operated in that location since the shopping center was opened. That high quality government inspected meat is appreciated is attested by the fact that five butchers are kept busy every day in the Broadway Market.

Coming to the Grand Central Market one year after its opening, A. Tucker has operated a fruit and vegetable stand there for the past 14 years. Quality produce and efficient and smiling service has made this stand one of the outstanding spots of the market.

Among other pioneer establishments in the market are Earl Lovings' Grand Central Barber shop, ending 12 years of unexcelled service; Wayne Reaford, proprietor of Wayne's Grocery, who has been located in the market for 10 years, and John Hansen, who has operated a shoe repair shop in the southeast aisle of the main building for the past 12 years.

THE FOOD THAT HAS Everything

the weed roots that are already in my soil, just waiting to spring up and spoil my lawn?" Well, the answer is exactly the same! You see, grass roots start growing earlier in the spring than weed roots do. If you give your lawn a good square meal early enough—just as soon as frost is out of the ground—it will give your grass a great big head start over the weeds. And later, when weeds do crop up, your grass should be growing so strongly that lots of weeds will find no room to grow; they'll be choked out.

Feed Early

Now, of course, I wouldn't want to promise that early feeding will make the grass choke out all the weeds in one season. But if you do it right, and do it early enough, it will cut the number down so greatly that you'll feel like going after the rest by hand.

But remember—to be effective, it must be done just as soon as frost is out of the ground. And remember, too, that just any old plant food won't do. Manures, for instance, actually contain weed seeds, and putting them on your lawn just makes the problem that much worse. I'd recommend that you buy a complete plant food, one that supplies all eleven of the food elements your grass needs from the soil. Apply it to your entire lawn, 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

FRENCH LIVING COSTS UP
PARIS (UP)—Cost of living for a French laboring family of man, wife and two children has risen by 15.2 per cent since devaluation of the franc six months ago. Compared with pre-war, living is nearly 500 per cent dearer. These figures were announced by a commission of employers, workmen and civil servants.

GERMAN PAPER SHORTAGE
BERLIN (UP)—German paper wholesalers are advising customers to lay in special stocks because of an increasing shortage caused by the large demands for wood under the Nazi Four Year Economic Plan.

2. HOW TO RID YOUR LAWN OF WEEDS

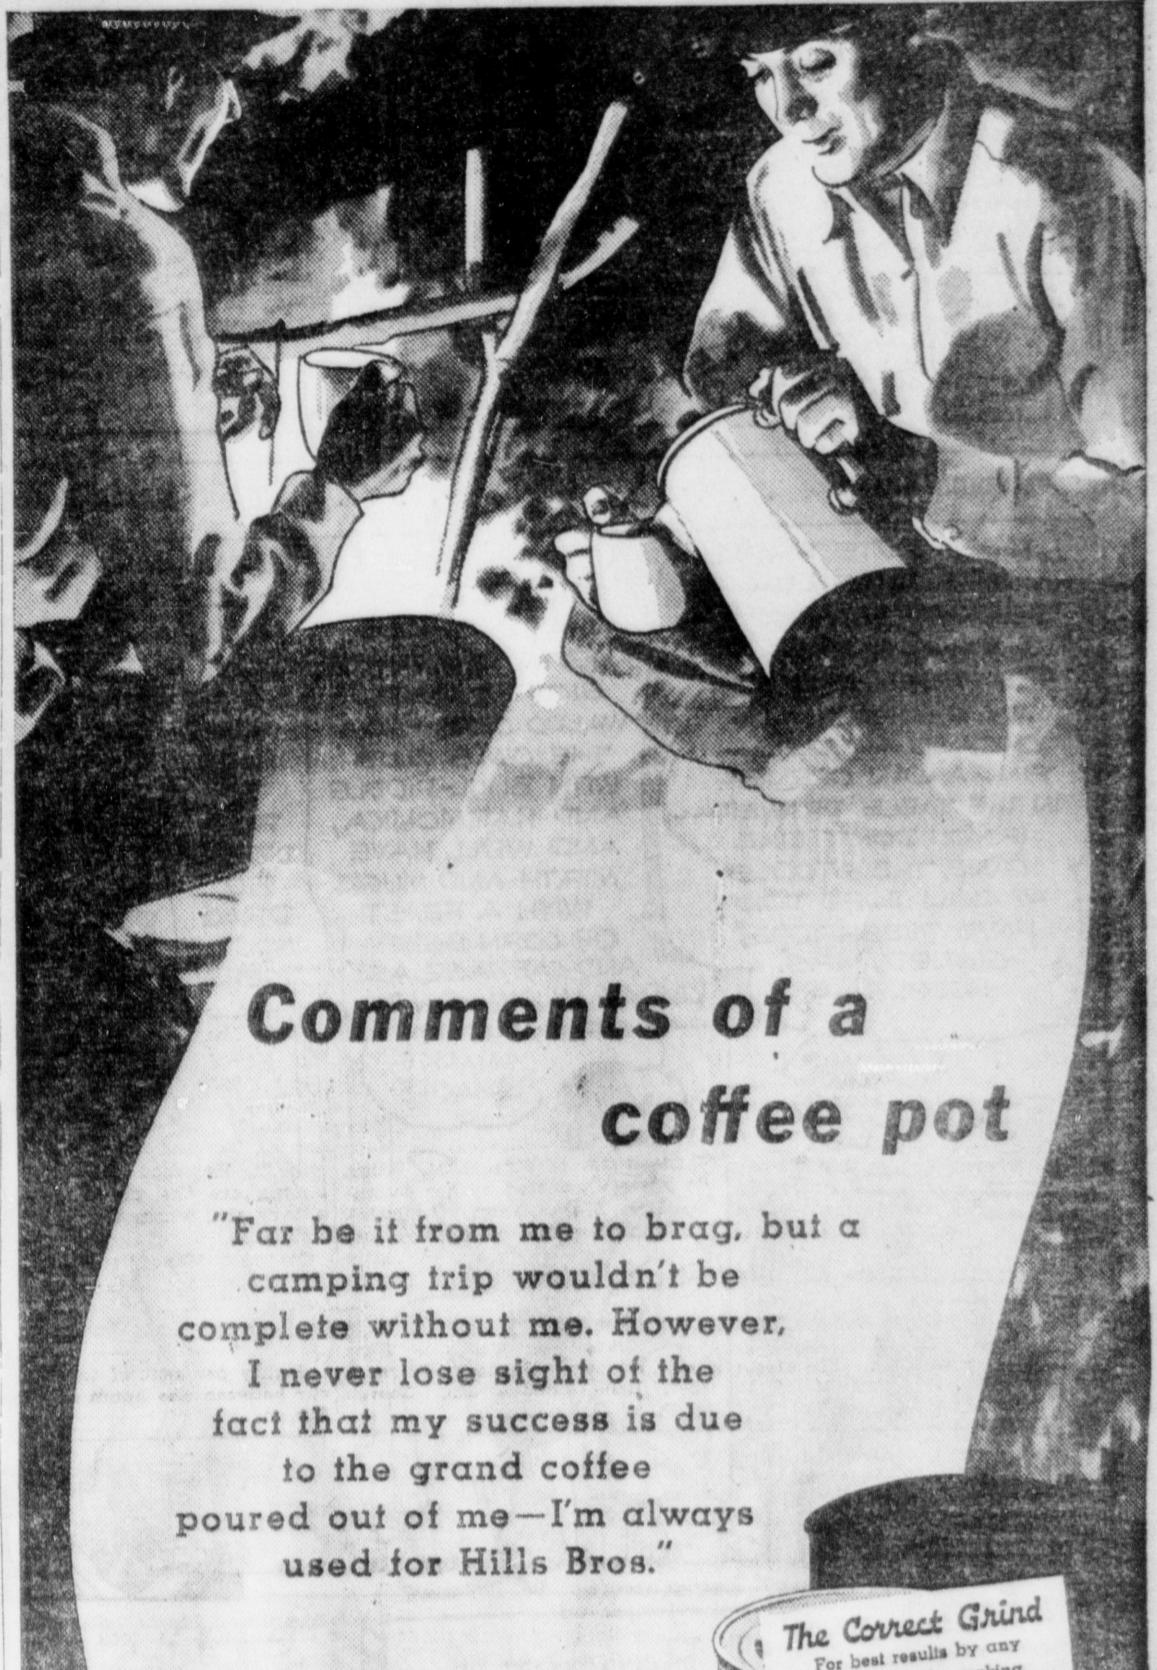

I know lots of folks have given up hope of ever having a weedless lawn. And if I try to tell them that they can have one they're likely not to believe me. But the treatment I'm going to prescribe has cured lots of lawns that their owners had given up for lost, and I certainly want to urge you to give it a fair trial.

In trying to get rid of weeds, the first thing to consider is this. A weed and a grass plant just naturally can't grow on the same identical spot. If you have enough grass plants, if your turf is thick enough, the weeds can't get started. But when your grass is thin, when it doesn't completely cover the ground, every little spot of bare soil practically invites weed seeds to light and grow. And you know you can't keep weed seeds off your place; every breeze brings in a crowd of them. So you see why it is that if your grass gets thin you're sure to have a healthy crop of dandelions and plantains and other pests.

Proper Feeding Essential

The real answer to this thin grass problem—and consequently to the weed problem—is proper feeding. Because a thin, weedy lawn is a half-starved lawn, almost every time. Here's why:

All through the growing season your grass roots are constantly drawing away different food elements from the soil, and every single one of these elements is necessary for healthy growth. If you let even one of them become exhausted from the soil, you're headed for trouble. Just like a child on an incomplete diet, your grass will become thin and sickly, will begin to die out. And right then the weeds get going! So the first and by far the most important step in controlling weeds is to make sure that your grass has all eleven of these needed food elements. "Very good," you say, "it sounds like a great idea." But how about

BALDWIN AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

A press dispatch quotes Stanley Baldwin, in what he called his "last speech before a great audience as Prime Minister of England," as saying the League of Nations is of doubtful value.

He told his audience that both the League and the Treaty of Versailles "have belied the hopes of mankind and they have given way to disillusion."

SHORTER BALLOTS

Approved by the state legislature and Governor F. F. Merriam the shorter ballot will be used by the voters of California at the next general election.

Under the new plan the long list of electors for the various party designations will be done away with. Instead will appear the names of the candidates for president and vice-president. In the change the only thing lost is the opportunity to scratch a ballot and give a friend, who might be in the list of an opposing party's electors, a complimentary vote. We avoid some wearisome and meaningless tabulation and succeed in making what has been a long ballot considerably shorter.

Voting is simplified under the new plan but we still have the electors who go through their motions when the electoral college meets.

In theory the shorter and simpler ballot should encourage a heavier vote; it should remove some objections to the complications which have attended the business of balloting.

WHO PAYS FOR CHEAP POWER?

Hugh Johnson has a very interesting discussion in this issue of The Register as to the constitutionality of and whether or not the T V A project is for the general welfare.

If the Government builds and furnishes cheap power in certain localities at less than cost, when depreciation, taxes, etc., are considered, then the citizens of all other parts of the country are helping pay for this cheap power sold at less than cost. The Government has never managed anything and received cost from it. The Post Office is a concrete example. Fortunately, it is not local so that all people are taxed to support it.

When the wedge is started to put the Government in the power business and furnishing power to one section at less than cost, it will be difficult to prevent it from spreading over the entire country. If it is fair for the Government to subsidize light and power consumers in one territory, it is fair for it to subsidize them in all communities. This, of course, means that other private business that is efficiently run will be taxed to support government business run on an unbusinesslike basis.

It seems strange that we are so determined to expand Government business with its record of inefficiency in the past.

A high standard of living in the United States has been due to private initiative and free enterprise on a competitive basis and not on Government monopolies or private monopolies of any kind.

The electric business, of course, is a new business and there has been and should be profits in any new business to encourage capital to enter the field. Of course, there has been temporarily unfair prices but this has been due to lack of the Government to intelligently control. If they cannot even control, how can they operate economically?

STILL WE HAVE SAVAGES

The news dispatches of a 28-year-old mother killing her girl, 8, and attempting to kill her boy, 4, in Long Island; and the report of 17-year-old Gladys McKnight and her sweetheart hacking to death the girl's mother; and James, the barber of Los Angeles, who a few months ago was convicted of marrying women to kill them for their insurance, is certainly evidence that we still have savages in our midst.

It is horrifying to think that with all the opportunities and attempts to bring about a better social condition, people can have this much veneer over their real motives and mingle with ordinary society.

It rather confirms the belief that man is not by nature gregarious or friendly but only friendly and law-abiding because it is to his advantage to be. We like to put ourselves up on a pinnacle and believe that we are better than the animals but it is doubtful whether animals would commit such crimes as these.

We have a long way to go yet, as illustrated by these three atrocities.

SUMMER RUSH BEGINS

Summer may not be here officially but to Orange county it arrived Sunday when thousands flocked to the beach cities.

Hundreds arrived at the beach resorts Saturday afternoon and night and spent the weekend on the sands. Other hundreds motored to the beach cities on Sunday. Accommodations were taxed to capacity, most of the hotels, apartments and auto camps being filled Saturday night.

The summer season is beginning early this year and merchants in the beach cities are hopeful of a prosperous four or five months. Anticipating a busy season many new apartments and houses have been built in all the coast towns.

A really busy season would be welcomed by the resort keepers who, for the last few years, have had pretty slim business, due to the rather unfavorable weather. Foggy days, especially over the weekends have been the rule rather than the exception for some years.

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 800 words.)

THE FORUM DEBATE ON INCOME TAXES

Editor Register:

On May 18 our mutual friend Helena S. Christiansen published in the Clearing House her impressions of the debate on May 4, before the Public Forum at the Junior College building on graduated income taxes, wherein I argued the affirmative of the issue, and Mr. Lew Bettie the negative.

A Register reporter was present at the debate. He made copious notes and published a column of direct and indirect quotations from the debaters, and presumably covered the subject accurately. Miss Christiansen's account conflicts with it in important particulars.

One might reasonably infer that a person who did not take notes and who had waited two weeks to express herself, would possibly not be as clear in her recollection, or as accurate in her statements, as was the reporter, unless we assume that Miss Christiansen's memory of facts becomes fresher as the time of the incidents becomes staler. It is possible that the delay in writing has compelled her to rely upon her imagination.

Miss Christiansen intimates that I urged that means must be provided for stopping the rich from accumulating an ever increasing capital; and, presumably, the income tax gave that desired result.

My recollection is that I instanced the growing fortunes of the Rockefellers, DuPonts, Mellons, Guggenheims, Harknesses and others to show that under graduated income taxes the accumulations of the rich had multiplied enormously, and that their ability to finance industry had not thereby been hampered. The 40 direct descendants of Alexius DuPont each have more than $40,000,000—the amount of the fortune he left—and some have several hundred millions. The same is true of the Mellons and Guggenheims.

Nor have such fantastic incomes been used for capital only. Eight hundred millions are spent abroad annually in the capitals of Europe, along the Riviera, for Paris clothes, across the gambling table at Monte Carlo, for foreign titles and adenoidal accents. No doubt these free spenders believe that they are using the money to better advantage than paying income not attack the debater on that account. Mr. Bettie's arguments were about as adroit as could be made on the wrong side of an issue.

My contention was in substance: That the super-rich are well able to pay high net income taxes; that industry has always been fully capitalized in this country; that in the late 1920's when graduated income taxes were lower than now, the surplus profits were used to build 600 branch factories abroad to compete with American industry and labor; that large fortunes rapidly grew, notwithstanding income taxes; and that on the other hand millions of farms and homes and parcels of city property were sold for taxes because the owners were unable to pay them; that some taxes should be lowered, and that income taxes in the high brackets should be kept high.

They again insinuated that the paying of high income taxes by the multi-millionaires meant that the taxes received were given to the poor. Mr. Mack M. Lane replied to her earlier assertion to that effect, and if she was not convinced that the income taxes have not been used for that purpose, she is about the only one who read his answer who was not so persuaded.

It is evident that Miss Christiansen is a conservative—definition tinged with charity in its application to her, for she is really a reactionary. She opposes New Deal measures, but favors the Old Deal policies that wrecked the country. The New Deal is collecting high taxes from large incomes, so she opposes on principle, collecting high taxes from those who are able to pay them, which necessarily commits her to the doctrine that taxes should be collected instead largely from farmers, home owners, property owners, and moderate sized business unable to pay them; and by telling him how much he knew.

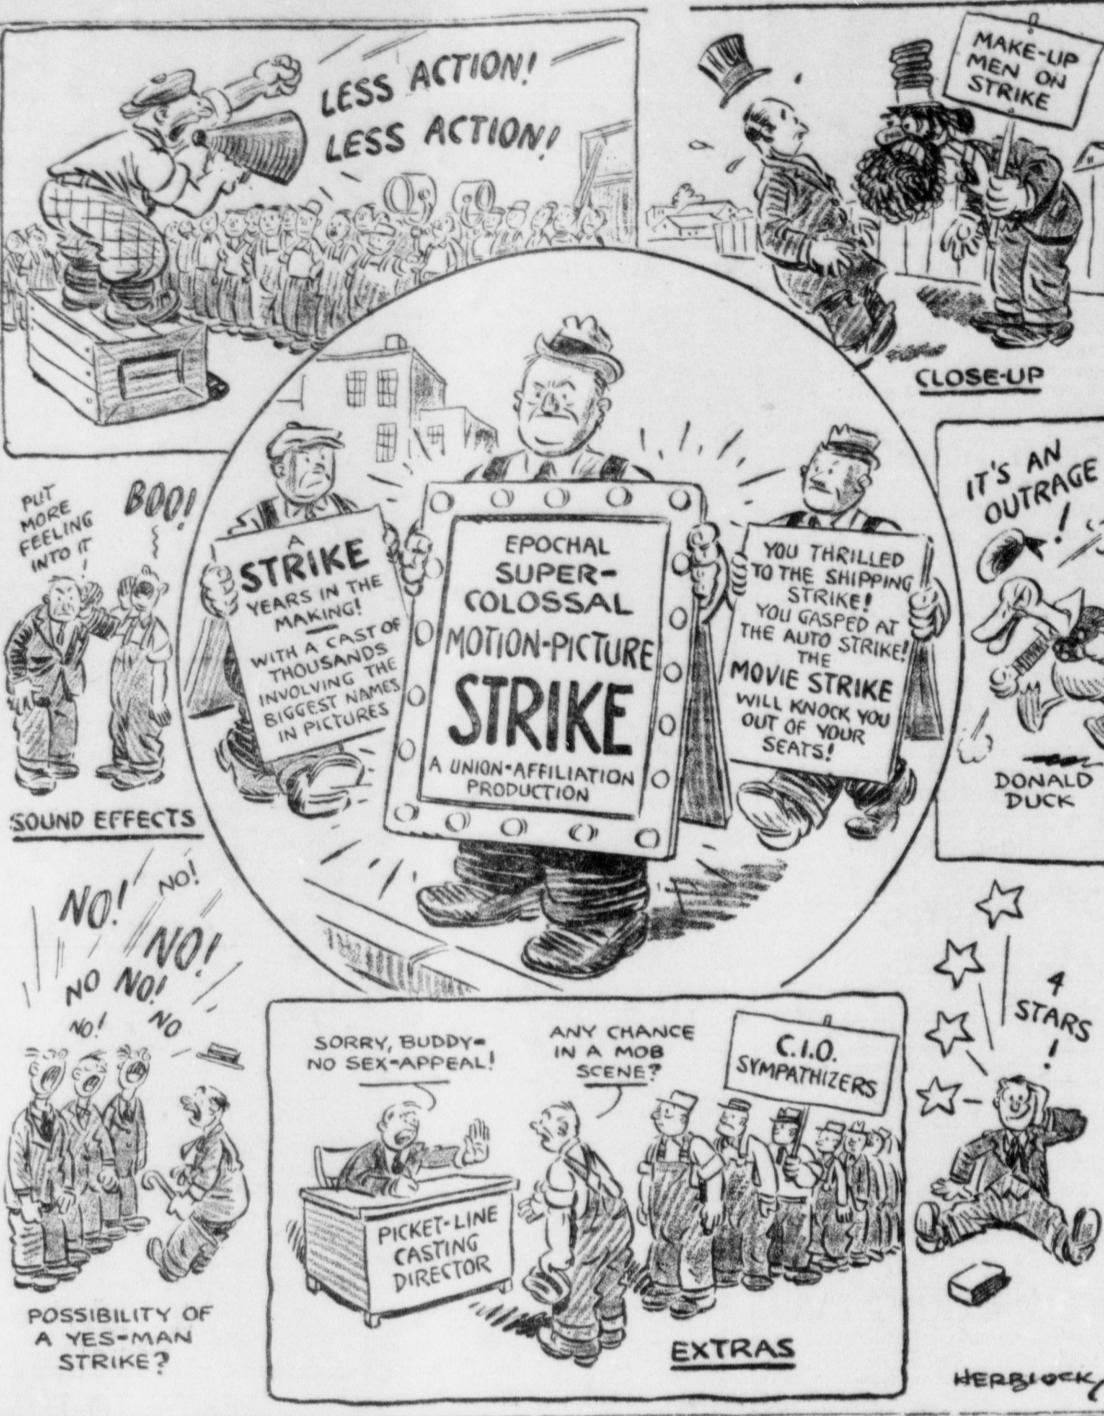

From the fact that the questioners directed their attacks to the negative debater, Miss Christiansen made the anomalous deduction that it indicated that the negative debater's "sound reasoning aroused the thinking processes of his opponents." His reasoning may have been sound, but certainly the questioners did not approach pure Democracy rapidly. In proportion as we approach pure Democracy, instead of true Democracy, we regress as far as standard of living is concerned.

That Miss Christiansen has capabilities in discussion there can be no doubt, but one with her ideas might be more successful in writing dissertations on such questions as: "How high is up? or, How grand is opera?"

Passions Unleashed

Better Jobs FOR ALL

—By R. C. HOILES

Pretty Raw

The remarks of Jim Farley, as to how they propose to put over the Supreme Court reorganization (packing), shows conclusively how they expect to use the power given them to relieve the poor from suffering. Here is the way Farley proposes to do it. He says:

"Well, when Senator O'Mahoney (of Wyoming) comes down here wanting help on a sugar bill his conscience won't be bothering him, will it? Or when Pat McCarran (of Nevada) wants aid for his State, I'd say it is all in the viewpoint."

Evidently, the Administration is perfectly willing to withhold relief in order to compel Senators to acquiesce in packing the Supreme Court. Could there be anything ruder than that?

This plan is so old that it is amazing that agricultural leaders still insist upon its being tried. It has never worked and only can result in a lower standard of living and poorer wages and poorer jobs for all. It eliminates price as a guide as to what should be produced.

Controlling Farm Production

It is rather discouraging to read the press dispatches of the proposed new farm control production bill. The bill would allow the Commodity Credit Corporation to loan producers of basic crops from 80 to 90 per cent of the parity value of their produce. And the Department of Agriculture would figure what the plan is.

WORKERS PROTECTING THEMSELVES

We have repeatedly reiterated the statement that we know of no way the rich can harm the poor, except by not making their wealth grow as rapidly as possible.

If this be true, then it would follow that there must be only one way that the workers can protect themselves against the rich from oppressing them. The only way that we ever have been able to think of, read about for the workers as a whole being able to protect themselves against oppression, is to organize them. The only way that we have been able to think of, read about for the workers as a whole being able to protect themselves against oppression, is to organize them.

Just recently the Saturday Evening Post had an article explaining the absurdities of this plan. The plan went down through the Ages, way back in Egypt. Brazil has tried to stabilize coffee prices for 30 years and they are now obliged to come out and if it's warm enough for them to see their shadow, they stay out. Anyways one came in my room last night, and it bit me so hard it made a lump as big as a baseball, he said.

Holey smokes, when that guy ain't lying he's just taking a day off to exaggerate, Puds Simkins said.

Meening on account of Sam Cros being the biggest liar around, and I said, Sure, goodnite, even if a ostrich stung you it couldn't raise a lump as big as a baseball.

O is that so, did you see it? Sam said, and I said, No, but I just heard about it and that was enough.

Well I bet it raised a lump the size of a medium size orange,

Sam said, and Glasses Magee said, Where's your million dollars and where's the lump?

Being a good anser, and Sam said, Well hay, does anybody want to bet me 2 cents it didn't make a bump as big as a egg, because if they do here's my 2 cents and you can ask my mother rite now and she can decide the bet and my mother's famous for telling the truth.

Do you mean a full size egg?

I said, and Sam said, Yes a full size egg.

Like at breakfast? Puds said, and Sam said, Well, some people like them for breakfast.

How do you mean, some people?

Puds said, and Sam said, I mean whatever people likes them.

Humming birds lay eggs, don't they?

If he had voted for the Logan proposal, the vote would have been exactly nine to nine. As it was, the compromise was defeated, ten to eight, and the committee went on to defeat the President's plan by the same score.

What it seems to boil down to is that the domes did a very bad job on the committee, or else some natural and unavoidable misunderstanding arose.

At any rate, they were flabber-gasted and were unable to do anything about it after it occurred.

CROWDING

Andrew Mellon has moved menacrage was the amount of glass that the man consumed in his house. The plan was so crude, of course, that it did not work. They simply used less glass.

Just so, any specific tax on any luxury reduces the consumption of the luxury. A tax based not on any particular item but on volume of consumption would reduce the demand for luxuries as a whole and greatly increase the production of necessities and, therefore, greatly raise the real wages of all workers. This is really true democracy and the kind of a government we should all want.
